Johnson Slates Meetings To Settle Crisis In Cyprus

HIPPOTAMI, in Kansas?—Mrs. Howard Gibson was driving along a Kansas country road when she saw this hippotamus (left) standing in the middle of it. She had trouble convincing authorities of what she saw, but the hippo later was found grazing on a rural lawn. It had escaped from a touring menagerie. (AP Wirephoto)

Goldwater Wins More Delegates

Given Forty-Two As Gov. Scranton Picks Up Thirteen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater won 42 more Republican National Convention votes Saturday while Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton was picking up 13.

The New Mexico state GOP convention gave its 14 votes to Goldwater Saturday night to move him within striking distance of the GOP presidential nomination. Goldwater also won Idaho's 14 convention votes, 10 more in Virginia and 4 more in Connecticut.

VIRGINIA VOTES

Scranton took over one of Goldwater's 19 other Virginia delegates who were selected previously. And, after a personal appeal to the GOP convention in his native Connecticut, Scranton won 12 of their 16 delegates, with the remaining four going to Goldwater.

Despite the one-delegate loss in Virginia, Goldwater still has 28 of the state's 30 convention delegates. The Virginia Delegate, E. Summers Sheffey of Abingdon, said he would vote for Scranton unless Goldwater makes his position "a more rational one and takes a moderate viewpoint in the next 30 days."

With Saturday's victories, Goldwater's present first-ballot strength was boosted to 580—only 74 shy of the magic number to win nomination.

After Saturday's state conventions, only 70 more delegates remained to be elected next week in Texas and Montana.

Air Force Jets Pound Red Laotian Batteries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force jet fighters swept over central Laos in strength last Tuesday and delivered a smashing retaliatory attack on Communist antiaircraft artillery positions, it was learned Saturday.

Chief targets were modern radar-guided guns that knocked down an unarmed Navy RF8 photo reconnaissance plane last Saturday and an armed F8 fighter escort last Sunday.

In retribution, the fleet of Air Force F100 Super Sabres rained bombs, rockets and machine gun fire on the Red gun emplacements.

Operating from an unidentified base, the F100s obviously were dispatched on White House orders in a carefully determined tactic to show Red China and Communist North Viet Nam that the United States means business in protecting Southeast Asia from aggression.

While Communist China broadcast erroneous details of the raid, Washington has admitted nothing officially and is not expected to.

SECRECY CURTAIN

The nature of the attack is believed to explain the curtain of news secrecy behind which the White House and the state and defense departments retired this week.

The State Department said merely that reconnaissance flights requested by the neutral Laotian government would continue but that "operational" aspects would not be discussed.

(A UPI dispatch from Vientiane, Laos, Saturday quoted a U. S. Embassy spokesman as saying the flights had been resumed).

There were these other developments:

—Communist China officially protested to the British and Soviets that U.S. jets bombed and strafed a Communist headquarters north of Vientiane Friday, killing one Chinese Red and wounding five. Britain and Russia are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference machinery on Laos.

—There were reports of stepped up Red troop movements in the Plaine des Jarres area.

Turk Chief Due In U.S. For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Ismet Inonu of Turkey will begin conferences in Washington with President Johnson on the Cyprus crisis June 22, the White House announced Saturday.

It is expected that Prime Minister George Papandreou of Greece will be invited to meet separately with Johnson on the same topic, although nothing has been said about this officially.

The Inonu visit grew out of this week's mission to Greece and Turkey by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

ARRIVAL DATE

Inonu will arrive in Washington on June 21, the White House said, and his consultations with Johnson will begin the next day.

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said he did not know how long the Johnson-Inonu talks would continue.

The United States has been deeply concerned about an armed clash between Turkey and Greece over Cyprus, where Greek and Turkish Cypriots are feuding.

Ball, holding a news conference here Friday, said he had emphasized in talks with Inonu and Papnadreou that war between Greece and Turkey, NATO allies, would be unthinkable.

Inonu was invited to meet with Johnson after the President last week launched new efforts to cool off the Cyprus crisis.

At Friday's conference Ball said there has been "enormous pressure within Turkey for intervention with Cyprus."

According to some accounts, Johnson last week persuaded Inonu to abandon plans for a Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

Although the invasion threat seems to have receded, Ball characterized the Cyprus situation as still dangerous.

Reedy declined to say whether Papandreou has been invited to meet with Johnson. His reluctance to reply was believed to reflect the fact that Papandreou has yet to decide whether to make the trip.

PASSAGE LOOMS

Senate Nips More Rights Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cohesive Senate majority continued Saturday its relentless plowing under of Southern amendments to a civil rights bill apparently headed for passage this week.

Acting under a one-hour-per-man debate limitation imposed in an unprecedented action last Wednesday, the bipartisan leadership consistently rallied 2-1 margins against amendment after amendment.

MECHANICAL RHYTHM

The process had an almost mechanical rhythm of introduction-roll-call rejection. Carefully husbanding their time, the Southerners made little effort to support with oratory their foredoomed efforts to shape the measure to a form more nearly acceptable to them.

Some very minor changes were accepted with the acquiesence of the bill's managers.

It appeared the opponents were forcing the roll calls largely to build a record on which to stand before their white constituents rather than acting in any real hope of changing the measure — or even of delaying much longer its passage.

The House - passed bill was first offered in the Senate March 9 but the voting process did not begin in earnest until the Senate on Wednesday imposed cloture for the first time in a civil rights controversy.

Progress since then brought predictions of passage by this Wednesday from Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the minority leader from Illinois, and from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's manager.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Dixie forces, said he considers action by Wednesday unlikely but conceded the measure probably will be disposed of by the end of the week.

The Senate plowed along like this:

— Rejected, 69-16, an amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to eliminate the section on voting rights.

— Rejected, 57-29, an amendment by Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., to exempt child welfare and adoption services from the section providing for cutoff of federal funds to programs in which discrimination is practiced.

Johnston said about $25 million in federal funds is used annually to aid states in these fields and argued that racial and religious criteria are inherent in such procedures as adoption.

But Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., acting floor manager for the measure, said Johnston was conjuring up imaginary dangers and "no one is going to force any family to adopt a child."

— Rejected, 55-30, an amendment by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., to require that employes of the Equal Opportunity Commission must identify themselves in any dealings with employers or unions.

— Adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., to exempt from the public accommodations requirements private clubs which are "not in fact" open to the public. This wording displaces the exemption previously granted to "bona fide" private clubs.

Woman Knows 'Hippos'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A funny thing happened to Mrs. Howard Gibson on the way home from a party Friday night.

She saw a hippopotamus standing in the middle of a country road.

She had been to nearby Valley Center and was taking a short cut home when her car got stuck in mud.

Mrs. Gibson got out — and there stood the hippo.

"I thought I was overly tired," she recalled later, "but I know a hippopotamus when I see one."

She reported her discovery. Everybody seemed skeptical, including her sailor husband, whom she telephoned at Norfolk, Va.

All except Frank Matheney, sheriff's patrolman. He knew a touring menagerie was in the area, and learned that its 1,500-pound hippo had walked away, apparently looking for water.

A search began, centering on three farm ponds. Animal handler Fred Hamm figured the hippo might have submerged in one of them.

The show's three elephants were prodded into service. Handlers tried to make them trumpet to attract the hippo's attention.

But once the elephants got in to the water, they refused to come out. The search was delayed while handlers plunged in and led them ashore with hooks.

The hippo finally was found grazing peacefully near a rural home not far from the spot where Mrs. Gibson saw it.

Military Alert For Red Thrust

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Western military sources said Saturday there are indications of a Communist buildup for a possible attack on Muong Soui, a neutralist stronghold straddling a highway west of the Plaine des Jarres.

Two towns screening Muong Soui from the Red-held plain, 110 miles northeast of Vientiane, fell Tuesday.

Mobutu Troops Counterattack Pygmy Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Congolese infantry, rocket-firing planes and armored cars were reported making attacks Saturday against rebel warriors in the eastern Congo.

They were under the personal command of Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, 33, army commander in chief. In one engagement Saturday, Mobutu's car was shot up by machine-gun fire but he escaped injury.

Messages from Kivu Province said Mobutu's troops, regrouped and reorganized after being routed several times by Pymoid Bafulero rebels, had staged three probing attacks from neighboring Rwanda since Friday. The third attack was reported to have started after dawn Saturday.

The bulk of the estimated 3,000 Bafulero warriors—average height: five feet—are armed with spears, cutlasses and home made muskets firing bolts and rusty nails.

But some rebel units are equipped with automatic rifles, machine guns and mortars captured from the Congolese army in May, when the tribe overran the southern half of the Ruzizi River Valley which forms the Congo's eastern frontier with Rwanda and Burundi.

Intelligence reports say the Bafuleros are being aided by seven-foot Watusi refugees from Rwanda.

The rebellion is led by Gaston Soumialot, a Congolese extremist politician with his headquarters in Burundi, where he is in contact with Chinese Communist diplomats.

At one point, the rebels threatened Bukavu, the main city of Kivu. Pro-government Bashi tribesmen Friday reported a three-pronged rebel plan to attack Bukavu after more than one week of rebel inactivity.

The messages said Mobutu launched his attacks at noon on Friday from the Rwanda border town of Bugarama, about 30 miles south of Bukavu.

FIRE, SABOTAGE SUSPECTS

Dominican Junta Arrests Fourteen

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The head of the ruling three-man civilian junta said Saturday 14 persons were arrested in connection with the fiery and bloody series of explosions that ripped an army ammunition dump. He said Communist sabotage might be involved.

Donald Reid Cabral in an interview placed the death count at 10. Another 111 were injured, five of them critically. He said the death toll might reach 15 after the ruins of the suburban 27th of February camp are sifted. He placed damage estimates at several million dollars but declined to say what percentage of the Caribbean island country's arms were lost.

PLOT ADMITTED

Reid Cabral, who often acts as president but does not have the title, said four of those arrested were soldiers. Three others were civilians wearing military uniforms and were caught in a camp Friday morning. He said these three admitted taking part in a sabotage plot that wrecked the ammunition dump.

The Dominican leader refused to pin blame for the blasts on any military or political group at this stage of the investigation. But he added, "We have an idea that Communists might be involved."

In New York, another member of the ruling triumvirate, Manual Tavares Espaillat, blamed Communist terrorists.

Dominican sources said the United States was asked to send investigators to determine the cause and responsibility for the explosions. The sources said a complaint would be made to the Organization of American States if it was determined there was foreign involvement in setting the blasts.

Reid Cabral said he did not expect trouble today on the unsuccessful invasion attempt to overthrow the old Trujillo regime June 14, 1959.

A three-day mourning period for the victims of the explosions ends tonight.

"It was an attempt by the Castro Communists to imitate Fidel Castro's 26th of July attack (in Cuba) and create a second Cuba in the Americas," he said.

Fire Bomb Razes Site In Panama

PANAMA (AP)—Fire apparently caused by a bomb destroyed a government warehouse Saturday in a suburban area of Panama City.

Authorities thought it was sabotage connected with acts of terrorism attempted elsewhere in the country during the past week.

Alfredo Arango, chief of the National Department of Investigations, said a warehouse watchman reported hearing an explosion just before the blaze broke out.

Arango said the terrorist movement appears to be the work of followers of defeated presidential candidate Arnulfo Arias and Communists.

Arias last month lost in the presidential election to Marco A. Robles. Twice before Arias was deposed as president.

DYNAMITE

Arango said three men held on charges of placing sticks of dynamite in three public buildings in the Chiriqui Province town of Boquete were identified as members of the Arias party. The dynamite was found in a microwave communications plant, a theater and in a public school building. The three charges failed to go off.

In Panama City, three youths were seized and charged with manufacturing incendiary bombs.

Arango quoted one of the Panama City trio, Eustorgic Ortiz, 17, as saying the terrorism was designed to frighten North Americans and members of Panama's ruling class. Arango quoted Ortiz as saying their incendiary devices would have been placed in automobiles.

Arango said Ortiz told him he joined the terrorist group because he lost an eye during last January's Canal Zone disorders in which more than a score of persons were killed. The youth claimed he was hit in the eye by buckshot fired by Americans from the zone.

Rayville Man Dies As Plane Crashes Field

William Foster (Billy) Johnston Jr., 23, of Rayville was killed Saturday in the crash of a crop dusting plane near Greenville, Tex.

The crash occurred about 11:30 a.m. when the plane he was piloting went into a nose dive. Mr. Johnston was employed by Jimmy Lafitte of Mansfield, La., and was dusting a cotton field when the crash occurred.

He was a graduate of Rayville High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 5 p.m. at Rayville First Methodist Church with the Rev. R. E. Walton officiating. Burial will be in Rayville Masonic Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville.

Pallbearers will be Neal Smith, C. J. O'Neal Jr., Danny McCarty, Lanny Rundell, Joe Cabuck, Johnny Kovac and Johnny Bond.

Briton Takes Guiana Power

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Without consulting the government, the British governor of this country assumed full emergency powers Saturday in his bid to stamp out five months of violence and ordered a predawn swoop detaining Deputy Premier Brindley Benn and 40 others.

Sir Richard Luyt said he took this unprecedented action because the Cabinet refused to give him the powers he felt necessary. He was using powers authorized by Britain last May which enable him to bypass the government of Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan.

SHARK-INFESTED WATERS

Man Battles Ocean, Fish To Gain Shore

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Once he thought he saw a shark, and: "One of the toughest things I ever did was to stay still. It finally went away."

Thus a truck driver, Harry Van Bouchaute, 39, described Saturday 19 hours in the reportedly shark-infested ocean. He was bitten and buffeted by small fish.

Attendants at Garden Park General Hospital said he literally had hundreds of bites on his arms and legs and was suffering from dehydration and exposure but was otherwise in good condition.

Van Bouchaute, of nearby Buena Park, and three companions set out early Monday from Kino Bay on the mainland side of the Gulf of California, to fish.

In the afternoon a $1.29 part in the starter burned out, and they couldn't restart their engines. They didn't worry because they were drifting toward shore.

Their only provisions were six cans of beer and two cans of soda pop, Van Bouchaute said.

"We had figured on being out only a few hours," he explained.

"Next morning we were farther from shore than the night before. We had one paddle and used a board from the motor box as another paddle but made no headway because the current was terrific.

"So in the afternoon I jumped overboard and started swimming for shore, about five miles away.

"I had a life jacket and the top of the motor box, but they only held me back from fighting the currents, so I discarded them.

"It got dark, and the fish pretty much chewed me up all night long, trigger fish, about 10 inches long, that kept nipping all over my arms and legs and a few places on my stomach. And mullet kept hitting me, leaving welts or bruises."

Van Bouchaute, his legs and arms bleeding, crawled onto the beach about 9 a.m. and met fishermen who took him to the Hermosillo hospital.

DEATH TOLL UNCOUNTED

Flood Uproots Families

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—A week ago Thomas Hall had all many men would ask of life.

He had his wife, his seven children and a rustic home in one of this nation's most beautiful settings—the mountain country of northwestern Montana.

Today Thomas Hall, 35, a Blackfoot Indian, has nothing except a staggering load of grief he somehow contains silently.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," he told a friend.

Hall's wife and children are gone. The dude ranch he operated is gone. There is no evidence now his world ever existed. And it happened right before his eyes in a flash flood that swept away his home on Birch Creek.

No one knows yet how many lives were lost in the great Montana flood — the state's worst disaster and the worst Western flood in 30 years.

No one knows yet the full impact of the flood on the Blackfeet Indian tribe, whose lands and people were hardest hit.

Ten bodies have been identified. In addition 23 persons are missing and presumed dead and authorities still list five as missing.

It would be a miracle if any of Hall's family is alive. They are listed among those missing and resumed dead. When the earthen dam on Birch Creek collapsed without warning Monday the angry flood which resulted stormed down the canyon in a 20-foot wall of water.

STRANDED COTTONTAIL . . . Unhappy Flood Victim

In the house eight miles below, Hall's family was perhaps a little anxious. Hall, who was a gatekeeper at the dam, had gone for supplies and it had been raining hard for a long time.

Hall was within sight of the house when he saw the water coming. Before he could do anything, his house was hit by a torrent of water. With it went his wife Dorothy, 33, and his children, Jody, 1; Edward, 2; Martin, 4; Kathy, 6; Martha, 8; Margarie, 10, and Thomas Hall III, 12.

A tribe spokesman said Hall continues the search, but "we know they're all gone. We'll never see the bodies. What there is left is under four feet of silt."

This was a flood of many faces.

It followed days of torrential rains and runoff from a huge melting snowpack.

BIG ACTION IN SENATE

Lawmakers Face 'Explosive' Week

By SAM HANNA
Legislative Writer

Gov. John J. McKeithen, sidelined for almost two weeks with the mumps, is expected back in his office Monday as the Legislature returns for what may be the most explosive week of the current session.

McKeithen faces a still unresolved teacher pay raise issue, plus a proposed increase in old age benefits, as the big action moves to the Senate in the fifth week of the 60-day session.

To add more fuel to the legislative fires, the administration's Code of Ethics bill, opposed quietly behind - the - scenes by numerous lawmakers, is scheduled for a committee hearing early in the week.

Last week the House passed a $48.8-million salary schedule for teachers and other school personnel, sending the measure to the Senate where McKeithen's floor leaders were successful in committing the bill to the Senate Finance Committee.

Sen. B. B. (Sixty) Rayburn, a Bogalusa solon whose own teacher pay raise bill was killed in the Senate Finance Committee, is expected to call a hearing on the House - passed bill Wednesday. He is the chairman of the committee.

While the administration has the votes to kill the bill in the Rayburn committee, Rayburn has promised a floor fight with plans to offer it for floor consideration on a minority report from the committee.

This would place the Senate on record as being for or against the teacher bill, which is what Rayburn hopes to accomplish.

And if the Senate voted to consider the bill on the floor by virtue of a minority report, then the bill would stand a chance of passing. McKeithen then would have to sign or veto it.

He has said he was not in favor of the bill unless the Legislature provided the revenue for the raises. He also has sent the Legislature unofficial word that he would call a special session in September probably to consider a sales tax to finance the raises.

Meantime, The Senate will vote on a bill by Sen. Dudley J. Leblanc of Abbeville to increase old age benefits from $82 to $100 per month.

The bill proposes to take $28-million from tax revenue now going to pay the school teachers.

This spells trouble for the administration, since Leblanc has warned the lawmakers that those who opposed it would not be re-elected. He also said McKeithen asked him to introduce the bill.

While the teacher bill and the old age measure will have a greater public following, the item that has stirred up more concern among some lawmakers is the Code of Ethics.

The bill is now in the Senate Judiciary C Committee, headed by Sen. Jamar Adcock, a Monroe floor leader who plans to hold a hearing probably Tuesday.

Objections were raised in a hearing last week on the establishment of a commission to administer the Code of Ethics. After that the committee met privately without coming to terms.

Basically, the bill is designed to prevent state officials, state employes and legislators from transacting business with the state unless on a bid basis.

But Sen. George Lee of Alexandria offered amendments to take in all local and parish officials. The amendments are under consideration by the committee.

McKeithen's industrial incudement bills giving industry using natural gas a credit on taxes have passed both houses, but the administration's student loan program still must go through the Senate.

The House passed the item Thursday before adjourning.

Workmen's compensation changes are included in two bills still up for passage. An industry - backed bill passed the Senate and is now in a House committee.

With a month to go in the session, the lawmakers will return also to hear Gov. George Wallace of Alabama at noon Wednesday. Wallace will be in Baton Rouge for a fund - raising dinner Wednesday night to help finance his campaign for President.

The Legislature also has invited President Johnson and U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater to speak.

Election Today To Climax State Amvets Meeting

Louisiana Amvets are scheduled to end their annual convention at the Virginia Hotel here at noon today with the election and installation of officers.

The final day of the three-day convention will begin with a 9 a.m. general session with post adjournment state executive committee meetings also slated.

Members of the organization Saturday heard Shelby M. Jackson, former state superintendent of education, at the morning session. Jackson called for the passage of House Bill 369 of the Louisiana Legislature which sets up a statewide program on Americanism for adults as well as youth.

State Comptroller Roy Theriot was featured speaker at the Saturday night banquet. A dance followed the banquet.

Air Force Gives Commission To Shreveport Man

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Nicholas W. de Berardinis, director of public relations for The Shreveport Times, Saturday was made a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

Col. Maurice F. Casey, deputy director of Air Force information, administered the oath during ceremonies at the convention of the Louisiana wing of the Air Force Association.

De Berardinis was the third to receive such a commission in the Air Force history. He was a sergeant in World War II and for the last five years has done volunteer work for the Air Force as a civilian.

The citation recommending the commission gave special recognition to his contributions to American air power through aerospace education projects for his demonstration of leadership in air power and patriotism.

Lt. Col. Richard B. Olney, who heads a United States Air University briefing team, described the military mission in space. He told the convention that the secretary of defense had assigned to the USAF the responsibility of space systems for the defense of the nation.

The two-day convention ended Saturday.

DeBerardinis' activities connected with the Air Force and air power programs include serving as vice president of the Air Force Association, trustee of the Aerospace Education Foundation, general chairman of the National Security Seminar to be held May 3-14, 1965, general chairman of the Barksdale Air Force Base Pavilion Fund for 1964-65 and former chairman of the Military Afffairs Committee of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

He is also a member of the National Board of Sponsors of the Cuban Families Committee for the Liberation of Prisoners of War, general chairman of the Louisiana State University Aerospace Education Symposum to be held Nov. 20-22, general chairman of the Texarkana College Aerospace Education Symposium held Oct. 28, of 1963 general chairman of the Louisiana Tech Aerospace Education Symposium held Nov. 30 - Dec. 1 of 1962, and the Centenary College Aerospace Education Symposium held April 11-12 of 1962.

In 1961, he was commander of the Shreveport Squadron of the Air Force Association, the Louisiana Wing commander for 1961-62 and is the founder and executive secretary of the Ark - La - Tex Air Power Council.

DeBerardinis was awarded the President's trophy as "Man of the Year" in the Air Force Association in 1963, and the Association's "Exceptional Service Plaque" in 1962 with the citation "for your contribution to American air power."

He also received the bronze medal for his work with the Cuban Family Committee for the Liberation of the Prisoners of War (Bay of Pigs Cuban invasion) and was awarded the citation from Louisiana Tech in 1962 "for outstanding contributions to aerospace education at Louisiana Tech Polytechnic Institute."

For the academic year 1963-64, he received a diploma from the Industrial College of the Armed Forces of National Security Seminar at Lafayette. The Optimist Club of Shreveport awarded him a special citation "for devoted and unselfish service to community state and nation to the cause of patriotism" in 1961.

WeBerardinis was a sergeant in World War II in the Army Air Corps and saw duty in the United States and the South Pacific.

Photos To Win Weekly Cash Awards

It may come as a surprise, but your household pet could win you a cash award of $1,000!

That's the top grand prize in the Animals and Pets Classification of the 26th Annual Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, sponsored locally by the Monroe Morning World and News-Star.

The contest, which opens Monday and closes the week of Aug. 3 has four classifications for black - and - white pictures. The other categories include: "Table - Tops" and Scenics, Teen - agers and Adults, and Babies and Children.

The Animal and Pet category has always been popular. And, it's one of the easiest to enter . . . the snapshot could be taken in your own home or back yard, on a hike, or in an auto.

Dogs and cats, of course, are the most common household pets and thus lead the entry field in this classification. But the range of possibilities is broad. Pictures can be of zoo animals, all species of wildlife, fish, parakeets, horses, or you name it.

If you're a hiker, a hunter or even a patient bird watcher, a sharp eye and a ready camera are all you need to snap an animal or bird in its natural environment. It might be a wobbly-legged doe just learning to walk; a colorful cardinal feeding its young; a playful pony romping in a field; or a firsky bear cub about to-swat a hornet nest.

The family pet, of course, is always a good camera subject . . . whether it be a dog, cat, parakeet or canary. To get the pet to remain in a set place, use a pinch of food, a ball, a piece of yarn, or some other tempting object. Then get as close as possible.

Keep a loaded camera handy at all times, and try if possible to catch the animal completely unaware. That's when animals and pets are at their natural best.

The contest is for amateurs only, and pictures taken since July 1, 1963, may be entered.

Cash prizes of $5 for first place, $3 for second, and $2 for third will be awarded winning weekly entries in each of the four classes of the photo contest.

Revision Of Ethics Code Set

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. John McKeithen's administration pushed a crash program Saturday to rewrite the code of ethics bill to make acceptable to the legislature.

Meanwhile, Sen. Jamar Adcock, Monroe, said his Senate Judiciary C Committee expects to return the revised code of ethics bill to the Senate floor Tuesday or Wednesday.

The House and Senate return at 10 a.m. Monday to start the sixth week of the 60-day legislature.

A Senate floor fight is expected when a $100-a-month old age welfare payments bill by Sens. Dudley LeBlanc, Abbeville, and W. L. Rambo, Georgetown, comes up for passage.

House-passed bills ready for action in the Senate include:

One backed by the Louisiana Municipal Association to broaden use of the 5-mill property tax with a public vote of approval.

A McKeithen proposal to create a public vote of approval.

A McKeithen proposal to create a foreign trade sub-zone in St. Charles Parish to make way for a new $50 million industry.

The House has set for special attention Tuesday a constitutional proposal aimed at preventing any future spending spree on tidelands windfall money.

The bill by Rep. Arthur Crais, Orleans Parish, would provide that half of any lump-sum settlement would go to pay off bonded debt.

Sen. B. B. Rayburn, Bogalusa, said it will be Wednesday, at the soonest, before his Senate Finance Committee can have a hearing on the House - passed teacher pay raise bill.

Rayburn's committee, against his wishes, killed earlier a similar bill to provide the proposed $48.8 million pay raise for teachers and other school personnel.

PAR Okays Budget

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Public Affairs Research Council said Saturday Gov. John McKeithen's new state budget is sound, but it "contains less information about purposes for which the money will be spent than did budgets in prior years."

Over all budgeted spending will increase 2.6 per cent, PAR said.

The private research agency suggested "every possible means should be taken to provide as much information as possible to all members of the legislature as well as the public."

While the administration announced the budget at $964.5 million, PAR gave an estimate of only $961.2 million.

The budget is sound for the third straight year, PAR said. And revenue estimates were "realistic," because there is relatively little reliance on surpluses and bonuses to match income with expenditures."

New Bank To Open Monday

The American Bank and Trust Company, a new financial institution at 2007 Roselawn in Monroe, will open for business Monday and will then hold its formal opening next Saturday, June 20.

Officials of the bank said their goal will be a brand "new concept in banking services."

The announcement was made by Jamar W. Adcock, who was elected president of the bank, and W. R. Boles, chairman of the board. Both emphasized the need for "this new look in banking service to keep in step with the tremendous physical and financial growth of the Twin Cities area."

Another official of the bank is Sebron Morris Sneed, executive vice president and cashier. Board members are L. D. Ritter, O. D. Westbrook, Murphy Blackwell Jr., and Stanley Bagwell.

"These directors, business and professional men are well known in Monroe and West Monroe, and are dedicated to bringing to the area a form of banking service, designed to meet the present and future needs of all its residents," Adcock and Boles said.

Sneed said that "offering complete main office service with branch bank convenience at the suburban location, we will be the first bank in the area to install an account numbering system for high speed processing with guaranteed accuracy.

"This new system will prove invaluable in the handling of accounts, large or small, and will be particularly beneficial to clients who must necessarily keep a number of active accounts in one bank," Sneed said.

Banking hours will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Fridays.

Making up the remainder of the bank's personnel are Pat Marnell, loan manager, Mrs. Dorothe Schmidt, assistant cashier and head bookkeeper; Adrian L. Odom, Mrs. Betty Russell, Mrs. Barbara Dykes, Mrs. Leli Pittman and John James.

"The story behind the formation of American Bank and Trust Company is one of continuing faith in the growth potential of the area," Sneed said. "We intend to set the pace in this area with the most modern, efficient, but always personal banking service," he said. "We do not pretend that the established banks in the Twin Cities area have ever given anything but excellent service. We know that therefore, we must work hard and long to meet such competition. The banking public will always find a cordial reception and a willing staff at our bank. We will be different, and we hope the people of this area will like the difference."

MUSICAL WORKS AVAILABLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A library of musical works is now being made available to amateur theatrical groups by the Dramatists Play Service. The 25-year-old agency has concentrated on dramatic works.

A spokesman said the move was being made because of growing interest in musicals among community thespic groups.

Texas Holds 'Clincher' For Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outcome of Gov. William W. Scranton's belated bid for the GOP presidential nomination appears to hinge on his success in kidnaping delegates from Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Unless all the signs fail, the front-running Arizona senator will exceed in publicly committed convention votes the 655 required for the nomination if Texas gives him its 56 next Tuesday.

Even if he inherits the support of all other potential and declared candidates for the nomination, plus the backers of favorite sons and uncommitted delegates, Scranton would face the necessity of capturing some of Goldwater's supporters.

Goldwater has already indicated he intends to make any such operation by the Pennsylvania governor a tough and costly one.

But Craig C. Truax, Pennsylvania GOP state chairman, maintains that only 250 of Goldwater's delegates are legally bound to vote for him on the first ballot at the mid-July party convention in San Francisco.

He said in Dalton, Pa., that the others were committed only because there was no alternative.

"Now we offer an alternative which we feel will appeal to the many delegates who believe they represent a sort of constituency and that they should be responsive to their constituents—that they are not going to be locked up and put in a bag," he added.

Scranton's backers conceded that they had their work cut out for them in putting together a bloc of convention votes that could stop Goldwater in the early balloting.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has had some experience in such matters, said in New York that Scranton has "a fighting chance." He added that the nominee will be either Goldwater or Scranton and there won't be any darkhorse, including himself.

Scranton sounded the central theme for his newly mounted assault on Goldwater's political bastions in a speech before the Connecticut GOP convention.

He said that if Goldwater is nominated, his strategists plan to "write off the very states our party must win" in order to capture the presidency.

He contended that a Goldwater-headed ticket would doom other GOP candidates to defeat in many states. He said that in many instances candidates were being forced "as a matter of survival, to plan campaigns for themselves, independent of the national ticket."

How effective this argument might be on convention delegates remained problematical. Of eight Republican governors whose terms are expiring, only the chief executives of Michigan and Rhode Island appeared likely to object to a Goldwater ticket.

Five of nine GOP senators seeking re-election this year obviously would prefer some other nominee as the top man on the ticket in their states. These include senators from Maryland, Hawaii, New York, Vermont and Pennsylvania.

Shrine Club Aids Crippled

Helping children through the sponsorship of healthy sporting events has proved a satisfactory activity combination for members of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, whose various projects throughout the year are for the benefit of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Shreveport.

For the fourth straight year, the area group is sponsoring the R. C. A. championship rodeo produced annually by the West Monroe Riding Club and scheduled this year for July 15 through July 18.

Because they liked the idea of helping the Riding Club while they helped themselves to raise money for the hospital, the Shrine Club took on the job of handling the concessions, the program advertising and the selling of the program itself.

The Rev. Wayne Gray, president of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, which is one of several smaller outlying clubs of the El Karubah Temple in Shreveport, explained that the local group's efforts are similar to those being carried on by Shriners throughout North America for the support of ther hospitals for crippled children.

Starting on the project of building and operating these hospitals 42 years ago, the Shriners, 834,000 strong today, raise over ten million dollars a year to support their 17 hospitals, where all treatment is without charge, based on the inability to pay the often staggering costs of hospital care.

The 167 separate Shrine Temples in the United States, Mexico and Canada work year in and year out on various projects, aimed at bringing good fun and entertainment to their local communities, thereby spreading the benefits in more than one direction.

In addition to the present hospitals, which have no barriers as to race, color or creed, the Shriners have now set their sights on still another field, of the treatment and research for burns in children. Feeling that this is a field that needs development, the Shriners of North America are in the process of building and research for burns in children. Feeling that this is a field that needs development, the Shriners of North America are in the process of building and furnishing three institutes for this purpose, at a cost of three million dollars a piece, affiliating them with leading medical centers in Galveston, Texas; Cincinnati, Ohio; and Boston, Massachusetts. They expect operational costs to exceed a million dollars a year for year for each.

Heading up the Rodeo Commitee for the Shrine Club this year will be Earl Smith of West Monroe. Bailey Grant is chairman for program advertising, while Tommy Agnew and the Drum and Bugle Corps. unit of the Shrine Club will be in direct charge of al' concessions.

Every available member of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club will be out at the West Monroe Riding Club on Harrell Road, working those concessions, selling programs and seat cushions, giving their all for the sport and for the hospital that Shriners built, officials said.

WOMEN VOTERS MEETING

Higher Education Problems Discussed

At Saturday's League of Women Voters meeting in the Lotus Club, Van Odom, Monroe school superintendnet, stated that we will be "spreading ourselves thin" if the Louisiana legislature promotes the establishment of state junior colleges much further.

The meeting, held in the Ouachita Bank Building, considered the problems of higher education in Louisiana. Guests included Mrs. Doris Curtis of the League's State Committee on Higher Education, who led the discussion, Odom, P. B. Mangum, assistant superintendent of Ouachita Parish Schools and Dr. George Walker, president of Northeast State College.

A luncheon at 12:30 p.m. for members and guests began the meet with discussion following.

In considering the problem of increased enrollment of colleges upcoming Louisiana, Dr. Walker emphasized that an increase of 100 per cent over 1963 can be expected in 1970, and the colleges already operating by the state are lacking in funds. Dr. Walker pointed out that enrollment at Northeast has grown from 1,000 in 1958 to 3,600 in 1964.

The Northeast president stated that the proposed installation of a state supported Junior college in the Catahoula Parish area would not affect the enrollment of NLSC.

Mrs. Curtis reviewed the purposes and history of the league and offered suggestions for future work. She was introduced to the group by Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, president of the league.

Surviving Twin Of Siamese Pair Begins Feeding

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — The surviving Siamese twin Negro girl born here began a feeding schedule Saturday and hospital authorities reported her in satisfactory condition.

The girl was separated from her still-born sister, the delivering doctor said, Friday after a team of surgeons worked feverishly at the Greenwood-Leflore Hospital.

Elnora Moore, 33, the wife of a plantation worker and mother of six single-birth children, also was reported in fine condition.

The twins were born Friday morning, joined at the front from just below the breastbone to below the navel.

Although they had separate organs, their livers and a portion of the intestinal tract were joined and had to be separated.

Dr. J. J. Kazar said he had no way of knowing the Moore woman was carrying twins when she arrived at his clinic early Friday.

Dr. Kazar, who describes himself as a "country doctor in a country town" at first thought both were alive but said he was mistaken because of their joint movement.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Summertime Is Reading Time

Summer time is reading time and there is great activity at all of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, as well as on the Bookmobile, which is operating this summer with a morning and an afternoon schedule. The response to this increased service has been remarkable and we are delighted that the patrons are using the Library Services.

Books added to the collection in the past week represent a variety of material and there is certain to be someone who wants each book mentioned today. There are four new books in the field of science. "The Mysterious Universe" by Sir James Jeans is a classic in the field. All of our copies had been worn out, but we now have a new copy for each branch of the Library. "Slide Rule Simplified" by Charles O. Harris will be most useful to engineers. "The Atom and Its Nucleus" by George Gamow is another most useful volume on the nature of the atom. "Science and the Modern World" by Alfred North Whitehead is another classic in the field of science and one which many students will find useful.

There are two new books in the medical section; "Man and Body" by Benjamin L. Miller is a very fine book in the field of human anatomy. "The Long Walk Home" by Leonard Kriegel is an account of the experiences of a courageous man in recovering from a bout of polio. "Death of the Thresher" by Norman Polmar is an account of what happened to the Atomic submarine, Thresher. "Renault Repair and Tune-up Guide" by Harold T. Glenn should be most useful to anyone who owns a Renault. "Building and operating model cars by Walter Musciana will interest many boys and men.

The Library has a very fine collection of cookbooks but new ones are always in in demand. "Exotic Cookery" by Lilla Van Saher contains many unusual and Good Housekeeping International Cookbook" is the official world's Fair cookbook and it contains a multitude of recipes from all parts of the world. "The Handbook of Beauty" by Constance Hart should be very popular with women of all ages. "Practical business Psychology" by Donald A. Laird should be of great help to men and women in the business world.

In the field of fine arts there are a number of interesting new books. "Metal work and its Decoration" by much information on how to create many lovely objects from metal. "Essentials of Modern Upholstery" is a very useful book, written by Herbert Bast. It contains detailed directions for this most valuable craft. "Creative use of stitches" by Vera P. Guild is most welcome now that there has been a revivial of the art of embroidery. "American pressed glass and figure Bottles" by Albert Revi is a perfectly lovely book and one that all collectors of pressed glass will want to use. "Music Through the Centuries" by Nick Rossi music and we are happy that there are copies of this book in three branches of the Library. "Screen World 1964, volume 15" edited by Daniel Blum gives a complete picture of the motion year 1963.

There are several books dealing with different facets of life in the world today. "Builders of Emerging Nations" by Vera Michelses Dean is a very fine study of world politics and the men behind the new nations. "More Time Than money" by Heddy Kraemer is an account of a voyage of a merchant ship. It contains excellent advice for anyone who would like to make this same trip. "Africa and the Africans" by Paul Bohannan gives a good picture of life in that troubled continent today.

There are two very fine books contemporary American life "The Inevitable Americans" by John Greenway and "Anti-Intellectualism in American Life" by of these books are scholarly and well-written and make real contributions to an understanding of our way of life. There are also several fine books of history. "Life Under the Pharohs" by Leonard Cottrell sheds much new light on Ancient Egyptian civilization. "Chief Pushmatha" by Anna Lewis is an account of the struggle of the Choctaw Indians for survival. "The Federalist Era, 1789-1801" written by John C. Miller will be most useful to students of American history.

There is one addition to the Reference section this week. This is "The Putnam Medical Dictionary" edited by Norman Burke Taylor. The Woman's Auxilliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society made a gift of this title to the library. They presented us with two copies of the book, one for the Monroe Library and one for the West Monroe Library. This book will be most useful to our patrons.

REDWOODS ZOOM

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —The California Redwood is reputed to be one of the fastest growing of the commercial lumber trees.

When thick forests are thinned out, permitting an increase in light, air and water for new growth, the redwood "second growth" is accelerated, according to the California Redwood Association.

More than 200,000 acres of the original big trees are protected in state and national forests, but more than 1,000,000 acres are farmed commercially. Thousands of high quality "second growth" trees three to four feet in diameter are to be seen in areas which were heavily logged in past decades.

By CARROLL RIGHTER

SUNDAY, JUNE 14, 1964

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a Sunday when, until midafternoon, you need to be very careful that you do not get involved in any argument or accident or some fixed trouble of an expensive nature could result, so drive or walk carefully and follow the Golden Rule. The evening is fine for social pleasures, friendships.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Safeguard your good name today, which could be sullied if you act impulsively, imperiously, take chances. Follow every law and rule that applies to you. Enjoy social fun in PM.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Avoid arguments at home which could destroy all the harmony carefully built up for so long. One harsh word from you is all that it takes. Evening can then be charming, happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can easily attend church, study, get things done about the house and have recreation out-of-doors, provided you plan time wisely. Impress others favorably. Show your ability.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Steer clear of that person who tries to make you think you are not handling money affairs wisely. However, discriminate between personal and mundane affairs. Be more understanding.

LEO (July 22 to August 21) Get out and do those public chores you have promised to do, so that tonight you can enjoy the social graces. Be adroit. Then you win out over any adversaries of the past.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) Be careful to do whatever you have promised to execute before you get out for a good time. Evening can be particularly enjoyable. Set up appointments early.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Cultivate kind and good friends instead of permitting one who wants to argue over business matters to spoil your day. Follow own logic. Don't rely on intuition, which may be faulty now.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Consideration and kindness with higher - ups and allies is essential so that fine benefits accrue in PM. Don't mix in if there are arguments. They do not concern you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Take the needed time to plan a more accurate system of working at regular job ere you dash off to new interests. Seek those who have highest ideals. Be inspired.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) Giving those who need your assistance a helping hand is important before you go in search of pleasure today. Evening can be very entertaining. ning can be very entertaining. But don't shirk your dutis first! But don't shirk your duties first!

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) Although kin may not approve of some of your fast friends, be kind and helpful to them. They later change their attitude, are understanding. Evening is fine socially or at the theater.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) Enthusiastic approach to new ideas is Okay, but first be sure they are workable. Many will be cooperative, provided you are practical. Study well before making plans.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those gifted children who early sees himself or herself in the heroic light which can be the true future for your progeny, provided that you, as parents, realize that you have brought into the world a wonderful being and will nurture your child properly while in your care. Give education that will foster this natural superiority.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your Life is largely up to YOU!

Psychologists Bill Supported By Associations

The Louisiana Association for Mental Health and Louisiana Psychological Association are supporting a bill presently before the state Legislature which would provide for the certification of psychologists in the state.

Numbered as House Bill 569 and Senate Bill 159, the proposed legislation lists the requirements of those seeking to be accredited, limits the areas of activity for the psychologist and provides for actions against those who would fail to abide by the limitations.

It also states specifically the relationship of the psychologist and the physician.

The proposed bill was put before the Legislature at the request of the state psychological association "in order to safeguard life, health, property and public welfare of this state, and in order to protect the people of this state against unauthorized, unqualified, and improper application of psychology."

The bill would also provide a "grandfather clause" which protects and encompasses those presently practicing psychology.

RUSTON AREA CENTER

This Year's State Peach Crop Good

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana peaches are rolling to eager markets as far away as Chicago now, and predictions are for a large crop of top quality fruit through to the end of the season in late July, according to Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce.

"Louisiana has top quality peaches this year," Pearce said, "and packing sheds are busy right now.

"Refrigerated trucks are taking these freshly picked peaches directly to the supermarkets all over Louisiana and som eof them are going to other areas," he said.

The commissioner predicted peach producers in north Louisiana — centered in the Ruston area — will receive half a million dollars for their 1964 crop.

The season will continue until late July.

"So far, the price has held up to a fair deal for the farmers," Pearce said, "and the farmers should receive half a million dollars for this year's crop."

Pearce urged housewives to ask for Louisiana peaches, saying, "Now's the time to get the very best of peaches — Louisiana grown — for desserts, pies, cobblers and freezers.

"You just can't beat our own Louisiana Peaches. So, prepare to pamper yourself and your guests with sweet peaches grown by your neighbors."

He explained that half a dozen inspectors of the State Department of Agriculture are on the job daily in the peach area all season to assure consumers they will get top U. S. No. 1 graded peaches.

"You can be sure your Louisiana peaches are graded to rigid specifications and shippers must meet all requirements," the commissioner said.

$100,000 Tomato Crop Seen For Area

BATON ROUGE (Special) — About 140 tomato growers in the West Carroll parish area are expected to harvest a $100,000 crop this year, according to Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce.

The farmers began picking last week.

Pearce, who represented West Carroll in the Legislature during the 1940s, told a group in Baton Rouge Friday that some 100 acres of top quality tomatoes will bring the northeast Louisiana farmers double the income from last year's crop.

"And this may be only the beginning," Pearce said. "There's a great potential in the Oak Grove area for tomato growers who produce for the fresh markets in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

"However, we in Louisiana can use all they produce. We should ask for Louisiana tomatoes when we shop for groceries."

Most of the growers have one acre or less.

One of the largest tomato growers in the area this year is Wayne Youngblood, who began harvesting his seven acres last week.

Youngblood, who lives in the Concord community 12 miles northwest of Oak Grove, gives credit to a neighbor, Ray Sanders, for an idea he's developed into a "tomato picker". The four-row picker, still in its experimental stage, was tried out for the first time last week, and indications were that it will speed up tomato picking (cut the time in half) and cut down on the cost of labor to the farmer.

It consists of a metal framework mounted on a tractor, with a 12-inch board about four feet long gliding between each of four tomato rows. On each plank sits a picker who, as the tractor creeps along, picks the tomatoes and puts them in a basket. The filled baskets are set off at the turnrow by the six pickers.

Another successful tomato grower in the area is Jack Witcher of near Forest. Witcher, who has been growing tomatoes for the market seven years, this year has three and a half acres of what Dr. Julian Miller of Louisiana State University this week called some of the finest tomatoes he's ever seen.

Witcher is president of the Northeast Louisiana Produce Association.

He and Commissioner Pearce joined Dr. Miller, who was inspecting the area crop last week, in urging all tomato growers to provide irrigation for their crops.

"A small well and pump near your tomato patch doesn't cost as much as a big irrigation system, but it provides ample water during naturally dry periods," the three agriculture leaders agreed.

Tomatoes are brought by the association members to their shed in Oak Grove for auctioning to the highest bidder. The shed will be open every afternoon during the season, which is expected to continue for several weeks.

Pearce pointed out that one of his department's market specialists has been working with the tomato growers in the West Carroll area this year in an effort to develop ready markets for their perishable produce.

"And right now, it looks very good for these tomato producers," he said. "Buyers have been alerted and they are interested."

The commissioner warned, however, that more acreage is necessary to encourage the larger buyers to come to the area consistently.

"A large buyer can't be expected to send in big vans for large shipments of top quality tomatoes when he can't be sure he'll get them," Pearce said.

He added, "The growers can be sure, though. Next year, and the years after that, they can have excellent markets for their tomatoes — if they plan for it.

"And the planning needs to begin now and continue right through each season."

A special sub - committee of Louisiana educational officials will meet Tuesday in Baton Rouge to begin a study on the advisability of allowing the use of state trade school facilities by high school students. Asst. Supt. P. B. Mangum will represent the Ouachita Parish system.

A decision early this year by the Louisiana Education Board to discontinue supplementing prep school education through trade schools resulted in disagreement between Ouachita Supt. Milton C. Hall and W. E. Whetstone, education board member from Monroe.

Whetstone maintained such use produced duplication of expenses, Hall said it did not, at least in Ouachita Parish where students were using facilities at the Ouachita Valley Vocational-Technical School.

The board decision stood, though a special committee of 25 state superintendents were charged to investigate. The committee, in turn, appointed a sub-committee including Hall, J. G. Elliott of Union Parish, and J. O. Lancaster of Concordia from the Fifth District.

The Tuesday session is set for 10 a.m in the Baton Rouge office of the Louisiana Teachers Association. Sub - committee chairman is Joe Davies of St. Bernard Parish, a member of the state board.

Hall will not attend because of a meeting Tuesday night of the parish board.

Morelle Emmons, Lincoln Parish superintendent and chairman of the 25-man superintendents committee, has asked the group to report on the controversial duplication, as well as possible special benefits to high school students from trade school training. Also to be considered are any advantages which might develop from placing trade school facilities and funds under parish administration.

LaSalle Parish had six of the rigs actively drilling or testing, while Tensas had four. Other activity included two active rigs each in Avoyelles, Concordia, Ouachita and Richland, and one each in Caldwell, Catahoula, Franklin, Rapides and Union.

Stocks Stem Mart Decline, Post Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week stemmed a retreat from the historic high of May 7 by making its first advance in four weeks.

The recovery was on the lightest volume since the week ended Last Aug. 10 when 18,042,010 shares were traded. Last week's total was 20,158,810 shares.

Analysts considered the recovery mainly technical. The week brought a full quota of good news and there was some opinion linking market action with the jockeying of Republican presidential hopefuls. The three previous weeks of decline, however, also had plenty of good news and stock prices still fell.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.4 to 304.0, the sharpest rise since 3.4, the week ending May 9.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.36 to 809.39.

Wall Street chartists linked much of the market's performance to the action of the Dow Jones industrial average. This reached an historic closing high of 830.17 on May 7. The market worked down irregularly since then. Monday the Dow sank to 800.31—just above the "magic 800" level which it topped amid great fanfare on Feb. 28. This time, the 800 line proved to be a kind of support level from which prices rebounded.

The market advanced sharply, although on low volume, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. A mild and irregular decline ended the trading week Friday.

The low volume reflected lack of enthusiasm and there were plenty of analysts who predicted that the average would sink toward 800 in the Dow again. If prices weathered the test, then the next upside move might have a greater following, they said.

Of 1,512 issues traded last week, 759 rose and 589 fell.

The Associated Press average of 60 corporate bonds traded on the New York Stock Exchange registered a tiny overall gain in fairly active trading.

Corporate volume on the exchange dipped to $50,003,000 par value from $55,449,000 a week earlier.

BOOKS

Exploration Of Big Cast Is Good

AN HONORABLE ESTATE. By Lane Kauffmann. Lippincott. $5.95.

Some like the advance guard, some do not. The latter will find happy relief in Kauffmann.

His novel is a big one, moving at a leisurely pace, exploring the facets of many characters and a way of life. It is a good oldfashioned story — and that is meant as a favorable label, not the usual sneering epithet that has become fashionable these days.

You might liken it to the work of anyone from Meredith to Marquant, or call it a novel of manners. Certainly it is far different from the orgiastic, sexual and psychopathic formulas of much current fiction. The one abnormal character in the large cast makes no descent into the sewers.

It is a story of a group of people in a fairly well-heeled stratum of New York society, all of whom have some connection with the marriage of Vickie Fortescue and Roger Hilliard. In the few months between the engagement announcement and the June wedding, many remarkable things happen to the people around them Vickie and Roger themselves play only minor roles.

Charles Forescue, father of the bride, an executive in a mining company, finds that an early tragedy of his life is re-enacted in another episode. The groom's father, Owen Hilliard, who makes Broadway plays of other men's novels, almost catches a renewal of his youth through a flirtation with one of his ex-wives and a flirtation with the idea of writing a play of his own. There are views of the mothers, a stepfather of the professial type who is distracted by the errors of his goopy secretary, a dowager grandmother and a salty old grandfather.

It is a far-ranging novel about marriage and its hazards, a commentary on society; and although it is discursive and wandering, it has substance and depth. Of its kind, it is a fine novel.

BOOK WAS NO HELP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Attempting to recover a long overdue book, Judy Oliver of Columbus Public Library's Parsons Avenue branch telephoned a patron's home.

But the patron's mother said he would't be able to get in touch directly with the library, explaining: "He can't. He's in the Ohio Penitentiary."

The book that Miss Oliver sought? "The Power of Positive Thinking."

Life, Death Of Lenin Is Described

THE LIFE AND DEATH OF LENIN. By Robert Payne. Simon and Schuster. $8.50.

All the talents of Edgar Allan Poe, Alfred Hitchcock and Charles Addams couldn't produce a more chilling tale than the one which unfolds in this 640-page biography of Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

Fraud, murder, pillage, hypocrisy, even genocide appear throughout this lengthy-yet-readable volume, one of three Lenin biographies published almost simultaneously (the others: Stefan T. Possony's "Lenin: The Compulsive Revolutionary," published April 30 at $7.95 by Regnery, and Louis Fischer's "The Life of Lenin," to be published June 12 at $10 by Harper's).

The coincidence is readily explainable: 1964 is the 40th anniversary of Lenin's death. And the circumstances of that death probably are the most controversial thing about Payne's book.

Payne says flatly that Stalin had Lenin poisoned, thereby clearing the way for the 30-year rule in which the onetime seminarian from Georgia wrote a history far more bloody and tyrannical than any of the czars.

The belief that Lenin died from a cerebral hemorrhage has been prevalent, and Payne concedes at the outset that one of his main purposes is to set the record straight. Other legends which he demolishes along the way include those of Lenin's heritage ("he was German, Swedish and Chuvash," and there was not a drop of Russian blood in him"), his poverty ("... since his monthly income amounted to 150 rubles per month he was probably the wealthiest person in the village"), his humility (he did not hesitate to cite his hereditary nobility and "he had the aristocrat's contempt for the mob"), his devotion to Marxism ("... in fact he hammered and bent Marx to his own will ... jettisoning him whenever it served his purpose"), his asceticism and scholarship ("like other men, had mistresses, and he was not always the detached scholar") his humanity ("he could decree the deaths of thousands upon thousands of men, and their deaths were immaterial, because they were only statistics impeding the progress of his theory").

For the serious reader—and few would tackle such a book casually — Payne has added a chronology, bibliography, index and chapter notes.

U.S. Toured By Another Top Novelist

AROUND ABOUT AMERICA. By Erskine Caldwell. Farrar, Straus. $4.50.

Caldwell set out to take a look at "life in the United States of America at this particular time of our century."

It was not one continuous journey, but a series of disconnected journeys in rented cars, for a total of 25,000 miles, and the author was accompanied by his wife.

Rather than visit the familiar, and supposedly more typical, areas of the country, he deliberately sought many places off the beaten turnpikes. And in presenting his story, he uses an unusual device. He alternates a very brief essay with a very brief piece he calls an "interim" —which can be an anecdote, a scene or a conversation.

Among the unusual topics he presents is the communal life of the Hutterite Brethren in South Dakota. He also describes how the descendants of Basque shepherds have turned to cattle raising around Winnemucca, Nev.

More conventional themes are writers' conferences — he cites one at Nacogdoches, Tex., of all places — foods and restaurants, retirement communities and the effect of the population pressure on the real estate situation on Long Island.

In Birmingham he interviews himself on desegregation and then describes an incident of racial tension at a car rental agency.

It's an interesting book.

But in one reader's opinion, John Steinbeck did a lot better in "Travels With Charley," both as an observer and writer, and with more perception and wit.

Partisan History Of Guard

THE MINUTE MAN IN PEACE AND WAR. By Jim Dan Hill. Stackpole. $6.

A history of the National Guard is a momentous undertaking. The Guard from its roots in the legendary Minute Man of the Colonial Militia, is entwined inextricably with the history of the nation. Its story is so sprawling and so complex as to dismay a historian with an eye for neatness, each fact tucked cozily into its proper niche of narrative.

Hill had the audacity and courage to tackle the job, a wealth of firsthand knowledge to guide his researches, and the talent to carve a dramatic story. As a Guardsman — retired in 1956 as a major general — he served overseas with honors in World War II, and in policy posts in the Pentagon during Korea and later. He writes of many events in Guard history as an eye witness and participant.

The Guard fought as many battles on Capitol Hill as in the nation's wars. It has been a constant target for those who distrust state military forces, who wanted to give the country a completely federal force. That the Guard won its fight for entity is as much a tribute to its battle prowess as to its political influence.

This history is not easy reading. Nor is it a story of battles. And it is openly partisan. If there is a weakness, it stems from a personal belief that the General Staff cannot be so completely villainous, nor the Guard so completely angelic as Hill reports.

History In Wide Screen Movie Style

JULIAN. By Gore Vidal. Little, Brown. $6.95.

Julian the Apostate had a short reign. He became Augustus (emperor) in 361 at the age of 30, and two years later was dead of a spear wound while on a campaign against the Persians.

Vidal has taken Julian's life story as the framework of his historical novel. He uses the example of a nominally Christian ruler who turned against the official state religion, to give a wide-screen picture of life in the empire during the 4th Century.

The story has three narrators. Vidal has chosen a time nearly two decades after Julian's death, and has assumed that the emperor left a secret memoir. This document serves as Julian's own story of his origins, his beliefs and his desires.

There are two commentators on the memoir. One is Priscus, a vinegary old skeptic and pragmatist who had been a member of Julian's staff, as confidante and observer; he had rescued the memoir at the time of Julian's death.

The other is Libanius, a fussy old professor of the Hellenistic tradition. In the year 380 he is a feeble old man, hoping to write a biography of Julian as a means of striking at the Christian position, which Julian had failed to destroy. Ironically, as he argues with Priscus over the manuscript of the memoir, he is distressed at Julian's paganism.

The device of the three narrators makes for some interesting interplay among the viewpoints of the Christian Greek and Oriental philosophies. Vidal portrays his hero in both sympathetic and unsympathetic lights. He crowds his narrative with thousands of details about palace intrigues, battle campaigns, mystic rites, orgies, historical contrasts and philosophies.

Monroe police Saturday charged Clementine Green, a 26-year-old Negro of 410 S. 23rd St., Monroe, with theft in connection with money taken from Mrs. Warren Stassi of 1706 Riverside Dr.

Officers said Mrs. Stassi reported to them Saturday that [illegible] was taken from her purse at home Friday. The Green woman admitted taking $40 and that much was recovered, police said.

Police also arrested Mickel Brown, a 57-year-old Negro of 2800 Wood St., Monroe, about 11 p.m. Friday on four counts including hit and run after a minor accident.

Brown was apprehended at 2400 Louisville Ave. and also booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving and for not having a driver's license.

West Monroe police booked the following three persons Saturday on DWI charges: James F. Slade, 24, of Waverly Road, West Monroe, arrested at 1:05 a.m. at Natchitoches and Stella Sts.; Edward D. Dinger, 37, of Lake Providence, arrested at 12:35 a.m. at Cypress St., and Egbert Odom, 40, of Route 2, Box 27, West Monroe, arrested at 1:12 a.m. on N. 7th St.

Five Negroes suffered knife wounds in a stabbing incident involving two juveniles about 9:30 p.m. Saturday in the 100 block of DeSiard Street.

Police booked Bertha Lee Jones, 17, on four counts of aggravated assault with a knife and authorities were holding one of the juveniles in connection with the stabbings.

One of the juveniles was stabbed seven times in the back, side and arm and was in surgery late Saturday. Two others involved, Ezell Driver, 24, of Sterlington, and Eddie Gibbs, 18, of 918 Hoods Alley, Monroe, were in the hospital for treatment.

Gibbs had a shoulder and artery cut and also was in surgery late Saturday. Driver was stabbed in the abdomen. His condition was not known.

The Jones woman and the other juvenile had hand cuts.

Bernice Lemon, 51, Negro, of 710½ Adams St., Monroe, was booked by Monroe police about 5 p.m. Saturday on charges of DWI and reckless driving. She was arrested at N. 7th St. and Adams.

French Chief, Crowds Ignore Soaking Rains

BEAUVAS, France (AP) — Soaking rain failed to deter President Charles de Gaulle or cheering crowds Saturday, third day of his tour of provinces northeast of Paris. The 73-year-old president, less than two months after prostate surgery, disdained the offer of a raincoat.

The hardest downpour came while he was still in his car, and with aides debating whether to get out for a scheduled reception in a village square, De Gaulle strode away to greet the raincoat-clad mayor.

The mayor's speech was long and rivulets of water ran down De Gaulle's gray suit. Finally a short woman stretched high to hold a little blue umbrella over the president's head.

Reds Accuse Head Of U.N. With Bias

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Saturday night accused U. N. Secretary - General U Thant of "lack of impartiality" because of his meeting with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany in New York last week.

"By this meeting," declared the government paper Izvestia, "the Bonn chancellor displayed tactlessness and the secretary-general a lack of impartiality which is highly necessary in his complicated and responsible post."

"The chancellor visited the United Nations not for tourist aims. Not for the sake of social pleasure did he meet the Secretary-general," said Izvestia.

"Behind the visit was a badly veiled attempt once again to declare the absolutely groundless claims of Bonn that the Federal Republic represents 'the whole of Germany.'

"Erhard unceremoniously made use of the visit to the United Nations, and made use of the lack of impartiality of the U. N. secretary-general.

"He tried to kill two birds with one stone—to equate the Federal Republic with the whole of Germany and to stake a claim to interference in the affairs of Cyprus and the affairs of the United Nations.

"The Bonn chancellor wanted to speculate on the right to self-determination, as proclaimed in the U. N. Charter. He insisted that this right should be applied to the German question. But it is no secret that by the right of self-determination the Federal Republic means to absorb the free and sovereign state of the German Democratic Republic (East Germany)."

Castro Making Unsuccessful Overtures Toward U.S. For Better Relations

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Saturday overtures had been made for an improvement in U.S.-Cuban relations but that Cuba cut them short recently because of a rain of American threats and pressures against his Communist government.

He hinted that a third party made the overtures but declined to say who or exactly when. He denied that Cuba had initiated any such moves but said at an impromptu early morning Saturday news conference:

"We are never opposed to conversations with the United States on the basis of equality and mutual respect for sovereignty."

On Tuesday the Foreign Ministry denied Madrid dispatches that said Cuba was seeking the intervention of a third country to investigate the prospects for settling differences with the United States.

"We didn't make overtures with any government," Castro said. "There were some overtures but they didn't come from Cuba. They came from persons interested in the possibility of improving relations between the United States and Cuba. We rejected the overtures because in those days pressures and threats were raining upon us.

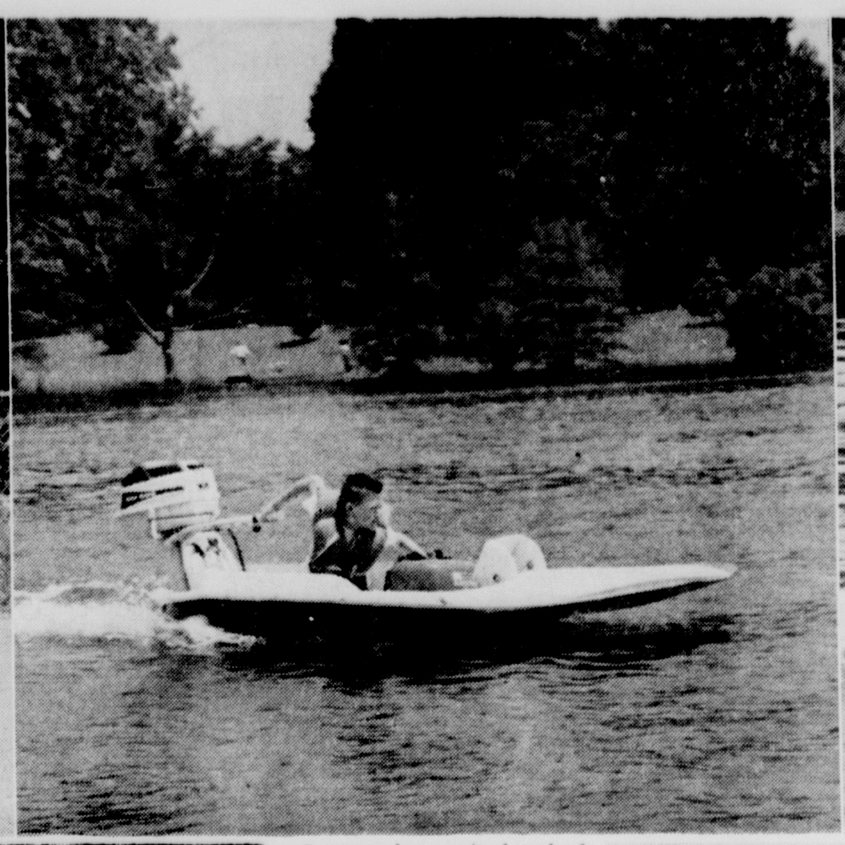
Recreation Moves Outdoors In Twin Cities



Summer has arrived, school is out, vacations are underway and the Twin Cities have moved outdoors — as often as possible, at least.

Traditional outdoor activity in northeast Louisiana centers around the water and the abundance of parks and recreational facilities available.

In the series of pictures on this page, Morning World photographers John Fogleman and Ben Bradford have caught the mood. These activities portrayed here are found everywhere around the area.

In the upper panel of pictures, Roy Kelley is prepared to catch the ball if missed by batter Art LaGrange. Baseball is a popular summer sport for the youngsters.

BOATING

In the center picture in the top panel, a young boater, Jimmy Balfour, races along scenic Bayou DeSiard. With the bayou and the Ouachita River available, boats are very popular in the Twin Cities. In the next picture, two unidentified skiiers skim along the water in Bayou DeSiard enjoying another popular summer-time water sport.

OUR "DEAR"

"Dear" cross here constantly as portrayed in the center picture. This picture was made as three young swimmers made their way toward Swayze pool in Forsythe Park. The city has put up the "dear crossing" signs to remind motorists in the park that the traffic to the pool will be very heavy from opening day until the pool is closed when school resumes in the fall.

Diane Stringer executes a fine dive in the pool, joining hundreds of her young friends. But it is not to be said that only the youth enjoy the city's pools. Adults are found in abundance on any hot afternoon.

CENTERS

In the bottom panel of pictures, Mrs. Margie Porter, an instructor at the Monroe recreation centers, displays ceramic work done by her "pupils" as part of the city's recreation program. Mrs. Porter is putting the finishing touches on a piece of work at Benoit Recreation Center. The centers offer many recreetional and hobby-craft activities to occupy the time of vacationing youngsters.

In the final picture, a family group enjoys the picnic facilities in Forsythe Park. Benches, tables, barbecue pits and playgrounds are made available in the park and in Bernstein Park on the southside of Monroe.

Not Too Big A Load

From some quarters has come an obviously sincere and well-meant suggestion that Governor John J. McKeithen may be moving too fast in his efforts to reorganize and reform the state government; that by seeking too much at one time he might cause a general collapse of major portions of his program.

The World sees no grounds for such a fear. Several parts of the Governor's basic program are not actually new in the sense of not being known to the Legislature or the people. In most instances, advocates of really good Baton Rouge administration for years have called for changes which form the base of the McKeithen program; but he is getting action where others did not. The Governor is fortunate in having a strong and independent Legislature behind him — one that has been described in the press, and by what might be called "elder statemen" among past public office holders — as perhaps more capable of carrying out its responsibilities than any Legislature in many years.

As for "too much reform," let's look at some of the Legislative setup:

Certainly the tax rebates to industry so as to place their natural gas costs on an approximate par with gas costs in Texas are sound. This method of aiding industry is, perhaps, a "new" idea, but a sound one. Legislation to end property tax discrimination against industry is something that many administrations have promised in the past but none actually has put into effect.

The Governor's Code of Ethics bill — prepared by the Council for a Better Louisiana (CABL) and criticized by some Legislators because they were not among the architects — represents a sound principle; and it would be the first in the nation applying to elected officials and not just to state employes.

The proposal for a state bond issue grant to the Gulf South Research Institute to establish a non-political, non - profit, eventually self - supporting and permanent agency for all kinds of research in any and all fields — education, business, industrial development and so on — also is thoroughly sound. The fact that the Orleans Levee Board already has set aside a tract of 262 acres as a gift to L.S.U.-New Orleans for possible use in part by the Institute indicates the feeling toward it from both industry and education in South Louisiana. This does not mean the research institute necessarily would be located there, but it shows how much it is wanted.

Naturally, the actual wording of legislation on such new steps as the Code of Ethics and a state bond issue grant to Gulf South should be studied by the Legislature. But there have been indications of the same kind of onslaught from some quarters that came from inside the Davis administration against any kind of Code of Ethics; that is something the Legislature must guard itself against.

For perhaps 20 years people have been saying that the Legislative scholarship system, whereby Legislators each are given $3,600 a year and up to spread around among students going to college—with the result that usually no one gets any real benefit — should be abolished. Leading educators have contended for years that the system of giving Legislators large numbers of fee exemptions to give to college students should be abolished, too. Neither system is of any real value to education and each works against sound fiscal administration.

Now, Governor McKeithen's scholarship loan program, with the fee exemptions and the cash gifts for students eliminated, is on the way to replacing both. It will encourage Louisiana youth to accept its own responsibilities in the education field through being able to gain loans for college easily, but on a repayment system of sound business operation instead of Legislators passing out — in most cases —doles in the name of education.

Certainly a central purchasing system to cut out waste in various state agencies, full publication of all state payrolls, and increase in the amount of idle state funds which must be invested in interest bearing manner are not new but are highly commendable.

The Governor's decision to create a special advisory board on settlement of the tidelands dispute — with $650,000,000 in escrow now at stake in the issue between the federal government and the state government — should create widespread public confidence in the manner in which this vital question is being handled. On the advisory board are such men as Paul M. Hebert, Ceil Morgan and A. E. Paple, deans respectively of the Law Schools of L.S.U., Tulane and Loyola. In addition, the board includes Thomas W. Leigh of Monroe, past President of the Louisiana Bar Association; John W. Tucker Jr., of Shreveport, president of Louisiana Law Institute; Ashton Phelps and Philip Gaharan Jr., well know lawyers of New Orleans and Jena respectively; Lawrence Brooks, past President of the Baton Rouge Bar Association and former Congressman James Domengeaux of Lafayette. Whatever tidelands settlement is made, the people can have confidence in it. And along with this has come appointment of an L.S.U. dean as chairman of the often controversial State Minerals Board, thus removing that sensitive post from any suggestion of political influence.

Taking all of this collectively, it is a big load, but not too big; and right now both the Governor and the Legislature are doing a good job of carrying it instead of just talking about it.

Today Is Flag Day

While some people may object to flag-waving, banners, standards and other emblems are too much a part of our tradition to be regarded lightly. For this reason, the nation recognizes the annual observance of Flag Day on June 14, the day in 1777 that our flag was adopted. The sacred symbol of our American heritage should be the immediate concern of every American citizen.

Dr. Bernard J. Cigrand was the originator of Flag Day. He made a practice of flying the national flag over the school where he taught near Fredonia, Wis., every June 14. In 1916 President Wilson officially made June 14 Flag Day.

The Flag Code, established by congress in 1942, establishes rules for displaying and honoring the flag.

Unfortunately and to the regret of many people, one exception has been made to the rule that no national or international flag shall be displayed above, in a position of greater prominent or honor than, or in place of, the flag of the United States, at any place within the United States or its territories or possessions. Provision is made that the flag of the United Nations may be displayed higher than the flag of the United States at the headquarters of the United Nations in New York City.

Presumably, the reason for this exception is that the United Nations headquarters is considered international territory. Still, because there are some one-worlders in the United States who seem to hold the United Nations superior to the United States, an opinion to which we are strongly opposed, and because we regret mightily to see the flag of our country bow before any flag in any area that fundamentally is a part of the United States or its possessions, it gives us no pleasure to see the flag of the United Nations above that of the United States, even on the United Nations buildings. On passing the United Nations building, we would look up at the flags reluctantly.

The flag of the United States should not be dipped to any person or thing. It is dipped in courtesy to another nation but never to an individual, not even to the head of our country. That we consider proper, since the flag represents more than any individual possibly could.

In a few places the flag is displayed day and night. The flags on the east and west fronts of the national capital in Washington fly 24 hours a day. The flag flies day and night over Fort McHenry, Md., where Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." It also may be flown at night from a permanent fort or a navy ship in a battle area.

The only time a flag or pennant is placed above the flag of the United States is during church services conducted by chaplains at sea.

Interest in our nation's flag has always been great and its significance is best expressed in the words of the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who said, "This flag means more than association and reward. It is the symbol of our national unity, our nation's endeavor, our national inspiration. It tells you of the struggle for independence, of the sacrifices of brave men and women to whom the ideals and honors of this nation have been dearer than life."

Let us reflect honor on the memory of our forefathers by becoming better Americans of the present. Let us rekindle the fires of liberty that once burned so brightly in this country but have of late become so dim. Let us rededicate ourselves to the policy of America first.

In memory of those men among men who carved from the wilderness this great country and handed it down to us with but one expectation — that we keep it as free as as when it was first conceived — the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, the Fort Miro and Chief Tusquahoma chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution and other such patriotic organizations invite and encourage the public to display flags today in observance of national Flag Day and on every appropriate occasion.

Franklinton, La.

To The Editor:

It has been said by one of our elected state officials that the "Americanism" program belongs to the schools. May we point out a few facts of life in this regard?

First — the school program is given only to the seniors or the juniors of high schools, and for the most part, lackadaisically. These young people are pretending to study this while reaching the high point of plays and parties at the end of their school year. Very few really learn much of the subject. Nor have the schools screened subversive propaganda from the students throughout the entire 12 years. The libraries all subscribe to "Life," "Time," and other slanted material. Independent thinking and research for the truth is discouraged for the most part. There are a few fine exceptions.

Second—even if all the schools faithfully and proficiently carried out his program; what about the rest of the children? What about those young people who have recently graduated, what about the adults who are so blinded by TV programs, movies, propaganda in general?

Third — Why not permit a so-called "outside" department to carry on this very necessary work? Why would it be "interfering" with school work? Isn't the 4-H Program outside the actual school curricula? The Junior Achievement Program? The Junior Red Cross? The many Parish Fair Exhibits to consume time? Are the ball games, dances, band (which very, very few use after high school), and other frivolities, more important than morality and fighting the anti-Christ? Are material and thrills, more important than character and patriotism?

It is time to choose whether we shall abide by the rules set up by Walter Reuther and the Communist Party, or the true Ten Commandments. This is true not only in our schools, but in our Churches and homes as well!

Think it over. Pray about it. Open your eyes and see the truth. Then talk and act. Not before.

Likes D Day Plus 20

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

I look forward to the article "D-Day Plus 20" by General Dwight D. Eisenhower. As he re-lives those fateful days, so do I, for I was one of the first Americans to land on the continent, being a paratrooper of the 101st Airborne Division. His decision surely affected me.

Twenty years has changed lots of things. Lots of my companions are not here to read the articles and, considering the number of troops that fought in Europe, not many had the privilege of being there on D-Day, H-Hour. I shall never forget it but I am proud I was there.

Energy Possessed By Women Is Vast

INDECISION is one of woman's greatest weaknesses. To counter - balance this she has inherited an almost endless abundance of energy. Otherwise, I doubt that she could get through an ordinary day. Mere man could not possibly withstand the pressures which she meets day after day.

Have you, Mr. X, ever taken over the care of the children while your wife was off shopping for a few hours? Have you ever had to become big chief of your domicile because your wife was in the hospital? How did your bed feel at night? Probably you were so exhausted you could have slept on a bed of nails.

Your wife walks many miles in your home. She is general supervisor of you and the children; she does the marketing; she cleans and washes; she is chef in charge of feeding for young and old. She is the social secretary. She darns and knits. She — she — she: I'm sure many women readers could add scores of daily stints that would drain the energy of a 250 pound tackle.

ALL THIS BEING true, woman should take to heart what I am saying here: learn to conserve your energy whenever you can. The female of the species wastes her energy on the telephone (hours of chit-chat expend priceless energy). She throws away God-given strengths while shopping. Either by trying to accomplish too much in one day, by shopping practically every day, or by being worn down by indecision. Buying something and then returning it.

Another energy-waster is too many sessions at bridge or other club activities. Have fun. But all I am saying is that you be not too extravagant with your energy. As women you need every bit you can conserve.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: My husband is 23 and is tired most of the time. He has indigestion and diarrhea. A few months ago he was drinking rather heavily. Mostly beer. He has cut down to two to three cans a day. I was wondering if my husband might have an ulcer. He says he is too young. Is this true? — Mrs. J.

Comment: Many duodenal ulcers are found in patients in their twenties. But ulcers may occur in the very young and in the old. Many cases have been discovered in very young children. But why wonder? Try convincing your husband that he should have a physical examination.

Viet Nam Pullout Push Is Expected

OBSERVERS HERE in Washington expect a big propaganda push in the months ahead for U. S. withdrawal from the South Vietnamese war. Behind it will be the liberal-left machine that successfully engineered America's pull-out from Free China, leaving the country to the tender mercies of the Communist "agrarian reformers."

Like the 1945-49 effort, this propaganda campaign will be clothed in all the slogans of freedom, democracy, and justice. Like the betrayal of Free China, it will have the support of elements of the State Department's middle echelon which will supply the materials for the liberal-left publicists.

The major contribution to the propaganda campaign came when on - the - scene correspondents deliberately confused Buddhist religious leaders with those who are using their positions to indulge in subversive politics. There are eight major Buddhist sects in Vietnam, but only one — and the least important — has engaged in blatant, anti-government subversion. Yet day after day, the newspaper subscriber reads of "Buddhist agitation" — as if the entire Buddhist majority were involved. Those now plotting to block further U. S. aid to the Vietnamese government make up a very small minority. It is, however, beautifully coordinated and makes sure that every demonstration it holds gets maximum attention from reporters.

ON THIS SIDE of the Pacific, the usual committees are in the process of formation. This past week, the New York Times published an advertisement signed, among others, by the usual bevy of clergymen, none of them more expert on foreign policy than the morning's headline, and Professor Frederick L. Schuman of Williams College.

Dr. Schuman has been relatively quiet for a number of years. He achieved considerable notoriety in the 1940s by his many left-wing pronouncements on foreign policy. He was known for always seeing the mote in America's eye. Eventually, the facts caught up with Dr. Schuman's rhetoric, but he is back at the old stand — scolding Defense Secretary McNamara for not pulling out of Vietnam.

The Times advertisement is a perfect example of the propaganda ahead. It calls the fighting in Vietman "a war against an entire people" — thereby equating all the Vietnamese with Communist Viet Cong rebels who have infiltrated from the north and shown their love for the people by murder, rapine, and the destruction of rice fields laboriously cultivated by the peasants.

The advertisement assures the United States that "we need not fear to leave, for no puppets (not ours or China's) will rule this brave people." This is an interesting point, recalling reassurances by Professor Schuman and others in past years that Stalin had no intention of dominating the satellites, that a Communist China would be America's greatest friend, and that the brave people of the mainland would never tolerate a dictatorship.

THE UNITED STATES is in Vietnam only to protect investments, say the clergymen. The U. S. is also attempting to open the door for free enterprise, we are told — a crime in the books of those who usually take up the cudgels for downtrodden guerrillas when their pillage is opposed. "Most of the 'free world' nations," say the political advertisers, "are now dictatorships." On this, no comment. The British would be rather surprised at this designation.

Anti-American, anti-freedom forces in Vietnam are busily feeding the materials to these propagandists. It is reported that the leader of the "get the U. S. out of Vietnam" is a Buddhist priest who was saved from arrest in Saigon by taking refuge in the United States Embassy. Our diplomats protected him, whereupon he left a wiser man, convinced that the harder he booted the United States in the posterior, the better treatment he would get from the Foreign Service officers.

In the propaganda drive that is now building up, no mention will be made of the fact that the present Vietnamese government is predominantly Buddhist, or that systematic persecution of Roman Catholics is the order of the day — while Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge says not a word. The important thing is to get U. S. troops out and to end U. S. military aid. Then South Vietnam will fall to the Communists, thereby liberating the people in a sweet bye-and-bye in concentration camps and before firing squads.

Weird Education Proposals Made

OFFER JOB - COUNSELING to kindergarten students? Grant low-income families $3,000 a year for each year a child stays in high school? Send school dropouts abroad on a student exchange basis? Build "educational villages" in poverty areas across the country?

Radical? Obviously! But this is just a sampling of the way-out ideas getting attention today in Washington and throughout the U. S. as potential new approaches to our explosive problem of the high school dropout—and it cannot be overemphasized that the attacks we have launched on the problem so far are just not good enough.

All the ideas outlined below are no more than ideas at this point. They dramatize, however, the range of solutions being offered to and explored by the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency, the U. S. Office of Education and leaders of the anti-poverty program.

JOB - COUNSELING for kindergarten and elementary school students — and their parents. Teachers might introduce children to the basics of the job market ahead, show them skills required to qualify for jobs and take children on field trips to illustrate what's involved in employment. The aim is to capture interest EARLY.

Include as many counselors as teachers in school systems. Today the student - counselor ratio is 500 to one; many educators believe it should approximate 50 to one. A way to fill this gap would be to offer full course credits to college students majoring in the social sciences who work with dropouts and potential dropouts. The aim is to meet the vast need for informed, personal attention to the dropout.

Pay parents to keep students in school so the kids won't drop out to support the family. To qualify for a grant, one parent might be required to go to school to upgrade his own skills. The aim is to eliminate economic reasons for dropping out.

SET UP SHIPBOARD schools for indifferent students by overhauling part of the Navy's "mothball fleet." Students would help renovate and run ships, would travel while they study. The aim is to use the adventure instinct as a lure to study.

Send dropouts abroad to study on an exchange basis with friendly nations or send them to another part of the U. S. Transportation costs would be no more than the expense of shuttling children to school daily at home. Teenagers interested in the performing arts might study in Hollywood's unused studios, or various ethnic groups might go to countries from which their parents emigrated. The aim is to put appealing glamor into education.

Build live - in "educational shopping centers" in selected pockets of poverty where schools are too small and too far away from a student's home. The centers might run from kindergarten through college, offer a full range of academic and vocational opportunities. The aim is to centralize educational facilities, make them available to many more students, offer fuller curricula and better teachers.

Revise the entire system of teacher - training to give the teacher a role more resembling that of the "coach." The aim is to make the teacher more revered and less feared.

OFFER "REMEDIAL study vacations" in pleasant areas. As baseball players go south for intensive winter training, so the problem student would go away for intensive make-up study. The aim is to tempt the student via the promise of the pleasant environment.

Offer "youth camp" service instead of military duty, a combination of vocational education with practical, appropriate work. About one-third of all draftees are now rejected and more than one-third of these join the ranks of the unemployed. The aim is to prepare the potential rejectees for employment.

Of course, many of the ideas are impractical, impossible, defiantly expensive, but as William W. Johnson, research assistant to the President's Committee, says, "They represent the kind of imaginative thinking we desperately need if we're to solve our dropout and juvenile delinquent problems."

At least a few of the ideas, add I, are much more realistic and much less impractical than a superficial glance suggests.

The Week In Focus

Planes For Vietnam

Just as the Army found it necessary to train special forces to fight Vietnam - type guerrilla warfare, the Air Force is developing special planes for such a war. It seems that long before the Congressional brouhaha over press charges that Americans were flying unsafe planes in Vietnam, the Pentagon was painfully aware that it did not possess a single craft built for guerrilla wars. This is said the direct results of the emphasis we once had on "massive retaliation." Because of this U. S. planes are just too good for South Viet Nam: They fly too fast and too high and carry armaments which might be fine to knock out a city the size of Moscow, but are ridiculously wasteful when used against straw huts near a rice paddy.

Thus the Air Force has to call up the old, slow-flying B-26 and T-28, which gave rise to the charges that Americans were being sent out to die in rusty egg beaters.

The new guerrilla war plane, now in the development stage, will be a twin-prop craft with space for two men, and will be able to fly low and slow and land almost anywhere.

Meanwhile, there wasn't too much change the past week in events in Laos, South Viet Nam and Cambodia.

In Cambodia, informed sources said the border area village of Talokbek was bombed Thursday afternoon by the South Viet Nam Air Force. This was expected to touch off another fiery dispute between the two nations — just as an attack on a village several weeks ago did.

Meanwhile, in Laos where the U. S. has been flying reconnaissance missions to obtain more information on movements and locations of aggressor Communist forces, a hitch developed during the week. Earlier, neutralist Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma had asked the U. S. to discontinue such flights, but later in the week the U. S. state department said it will continue periodic reconnaissance. It said, however, no information on operational aspects would be provided because this would not be in the interest of the government of Laos.

SOUVANNA PHOUMA

Souvanna, who has acknowledged that he requested provisional suspension of the flights which had been in effect, said that they must be resumed if the Pathet Lao and supporting Communist North Vietnamese forces went into action again.

At Peking, the Chinese Communist news agency broadcast a Pathet Lao report charging that six American-made AT-6 and T-28 aircraft bombed and strafed Pathet headquarters at Khang Khay.

Two U. S. craft have been shot down since the reconnaissance flights began May 16 to locate Communist movements. One pilot was rescued, while the other is still missing.

In South Vietnam, there was a lull in the fighting, prompting one American officer to believe the Communist forces were suffering from a series of recent defeats. It was also reported that two U. S. Marines who made a motor scooter trip in Communist-infested territory are missing and may have been seized by the Viet Cong.

Domestic Issues

IN OREGON nearly one-fifth of that state's Democrats wrote in Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's name for vice president in the state primary election. No campaign was waged for the votes. More and more it appeared that Kennedy may be the vice presidential nominee on the Democratic ticket, regardless of President Johnson's feelings in the matter . . .

CAMBRIDGE, Maryland, voters will have a choice next month between candidates of dissimilar racial views for mayor and town council. Candidates supported by a group opposed to compulsory integration were successful in a bipartisan primary election the past week in that racially tense Eastern Shore community. They will be opposed in each race by a candidate who is not a member of the Dorchester Business and Citizens Association, a group which was formed last year to successfully fight a public accommodations amendment to the town charter . . .

AT KANSAS CITY, Kan., George J. Gessner, 28, an Army deserter with a head full of nuclear secrets, was convicted the past week of spilling them to a Soviet agent. He was sentenced to life in prison on recommendation of a federal court jury. His case was the first to be tried under the Atomic Energy Act of 1956. The jury could have recommended the death penalty . . .

WHEN NATURE goes on the rampage, it is often deadly. That was the case in Montana the past week when rivers flooded, covering thousands and thousands of miles of land. In ll, 28 persons were killed and the damage was in the millions. At weekend, the water was receding . . .

Washington Roundup

The dangerous Civil Rights bill moved a major step toward passage the past week, when, in a historic roll call, 71 Democratic and Republican senators voted to halt the filibuster against the measure. After the vote, proponents immediately opened a drive to win approval of the bill within the next two weeks.

There are approximately 550 amendments to the bill, but each senator will now be allowed to speak only one hour. On Thursday, the Senate did adopt 79-17 a southern-sponsored double jeopardy amendment to the bill. It bars a person from being tried twice when the same act constitutes both a crime under federal law and criminal contempt of court under state law.

One of the six Republicans who voted against the cloture was Sen. Barry Goldwater, front runner for the GOP presidential nomination. He has also said he will vote against the civil rights measure as now proposed.

This was the sixth time since President Woodrow Wilson insisted that the rules be changed that the Senate has voted to limit its freedom to talk. The first time came on March 8, 1917 when Wilson angrily insisted the rule be changed because of the filibuster being used to kill his bill to permit the arming of U. S. merchant ships in World War 1.

The other occasions when the rule was used came: Nov. 15, 1919 during debate over the Treaty of Versailles; Jan. 25, 1926 on the bill authorizing establishment and participation in the World Court; Feb. 15, 1927 on the branch banking bill; Feb. 27, 1927 on legislation to create the Bureau of Customs and Bureau of Prohibition, and in August of 1962 to break a filibuster led by liberal Democrats against the late President John F. Kennedy's space communications satellite bill.

IN ANOTHER far-reaching act, the House Rules Committee approved legislation to raise the national debt ceiling once again — this time to $324 billion. The bill was sent to the floor over objections of Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith of Virginia. He charged that an unchecked spiral in government spending was an invitation to depression or calamity. The committee also sent to the floor a second bill to keep in effect for one more year federal excise taxes on whisky, tobacco, automobiles, telephone rates and airline tickets . . .

PRESIDENT JOHNSON continued to act the politician he is. He made several addresses the past week, obviously with his eyes noting the November presidential election. In one speech he said many of the world's problems will persist beyond the cold war, and outlined what he called a far-flung program for attacking them. He said he intends to dedicate 1965 to the search for new techniques to make man's knowledge serve man's welfare . . .

IN ADDITION TO the civil rights action, President Johnson won another victory in Congress the past week when the House approved his $3.5 billion foreign aid bill virtually intact — the first time in the 17-year history of the program that this has happened. Johnson's request this year was the smallest ever made. Congress still has to approve a separate bill which contains the appropriation to carry out the program . . .

THE SUPREME COURT continued to live up to its unusual rulings when it let stand a ruling which quashed the conviction of the U. S. Communist Party for refusing to register with the Justice Department. The department had told the high court that the appeals court decision would make it all but impossible to enforce the 1950 subversive activities control act against either the party or its front organizations. The appeals court had held that the government had failed to prove that the party had anyone available who could sign a registration statement without incriminating himself. Earlier, the Justice Department had won a case when a lower court had convicted the party for failure to register on 11 specified days and for failure to file a statement listing accounting . . .

IN A SURPRISING move, House members Thursday voted to fatten their annual paychecks by $7,500, increase government salaries from the vice president on down, and make future pay raises for congressmen considerably less painful. Without a hitch, the House voted 243 to 157 a $533 million federal pay bill and sent it to the Senate for action this election year. It was a stunning victory for the bill's backers who only last March saw the House defeat a similar measure. The bill will boost congressional salaries from $22,500 to $30,000. Also under the bill, the pay of the government's 1.7 million white collar workers would go up from 3 to 22 per cent . . .

Evolution Again

Thirty-nine years ago a jury was asked to decide whether the theory of evolution should be taught in the schools of Tennessee.

This November, half a million voters may decide whether the Darwinian theory should be taught in the schools of Arizona.

The famed "monkey trial" of 1925 was staged in the Tennessee hamlet of Dayton with a young biology teacher — John Scopes — the central figure. Scopes deliberately violated an anti-evolution law to force the court test.

For Arizona, the trial may be staged in voting booths. Behind the test is the Rev. Aubrey Moore, a Southern Baptist minister who once said, "Either God is a liar or evolution is a liar."

Moore is circulating petitions to place on the general election ballot a proposed state constitutional amendment to prohibit the teaching of evolution in public schools.

He needs 54,876 signatures to bring the measure before the voters.

Moore says he has 7,000 petitions in circulation and expects at least one-half to be returned. Each petition contains the space for 20 signatures.

The Moore proposal already has driven a wedge into the ranks of the Arizona clergy.

Forty-three Methodist ministers and Rabbi Albert Plotkin of Temple Beth Israel, Phoenix, issued a letter attacking a ban on the teaching of evolution.

The Tennessee jury of four decades ago found Scopes guilty and fined him $100.

Moore's proposal calls for a fine of $100 to $500 with automatic revocation of a violator's teaching certificate.

Arizona's fight over evolution started last fall when Harold Bates of Phoenix, member of the Nazarene Church, appeared before the State Board of Education.

He said schools were using science books that offered contents in conflict with the Bible. He insisted if evolution could not be barred, then teachers should take the initiative in excusing from classes all children whose parents consider the material objectionable.

The board asked State Atty. Gen. Robert Pickrell if it had the power to prohibit instructions in evolution.

Pickrell said a decision should be reached through a contested court case.

"Although the teaching of a particular subject may or may not infringe on the constitutional rights of a citizen, we must also be mindful that to prohibit the teaching of a particular subject which has long been accepted might well infringe on a valuable right of others — the right to receive an education," he said.

Moore criticized the board for its failure to take a position on evolution.

The Rev. Hugh Shelby Lee, pastor of the Phoenix First Congregational church, said, "I am very much opposed to this thing that Mr. Moore is doing. Under his initiative petition it is conceivable that you could not teach literature or anything else without a bias based on God. This is dangerous to education."

Dr. Davis C. Hass, pastor of the North Phoenix Baptist church, Phoenix, said, "Evolution should be taught as a theory only. It should take its place alongside a host of other theories."

The World Briefly

PANAMANIAN complaints that U. S. armed forces violated human rights in the Canal Zone flag riots last January backfired last Tuesday in a judgment issued by the International Commission of Jurists. The commission rejected the charges and criticized Panama's authorities for failing to curb rioters and snipers at the outset. Said the report: "While the crowds milled unchecked, there is considerable evidence to indicate that broadcasts over radio, television, loudspeakers, newspapers and other means were adopted to incite and misinform the Panamanian public without any action by the Panamanian authorities to curtail or moderate such activities." The commission is a private organization of lawyers, judges and law professors from throughout the non-Communist world . . .

UNDERSECRETARY of State George W. Ball made a flying visit to both Athens, Greece, and Ankara, Turkey, the past week in an effort to quiet fears of a war over the Cyprus dispute. He warned leaders of both countries that a peaceful solution to the island's fighting must be found as soon as possible. There have been fears that Turkey planned to invade Cyprus unless the Greek Cypriots halt the killing of Turks on the island. At Ankara Turkish Premier Inonu said that his government is pleased that the U. S. has intervened directly to settle the differences. There was indication that Ball suggested that the two countries engage in direct negotiations with each other on the problem . . .

Louisiana And Local

It was a lively week in the Louisiana Legislature. The biggest debate came on the teachers' pay raise bill — the measure that calls for an increase in salary, but fails to provide the $40 to $50 million needed.

The measure was approved despite the opposition of Gov. John McKeithen and his floor leaders, all of whom have pleaded for time to raise funds to implement the new salary schedule before it is approved.

THE ASSASSINATION which sparked World War I took place 50 years ago, June 28, 1914, at this corner in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. Here Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austria—Hungary, was shot by a young Bosnian Serb nationalist, member of a conspiracy. His wife, riding beside him on a visit to this unhappy section of the empire, died with him. A plaque over the door at right commemorates the event, which was similar to the President Kennedy assassination in several ways. Photo was made in July, 1947. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Killing Is Recalled

By CARL HARTMAN

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) —It was a warm, sunny morning when a leader of great promise came to show himself in an important southern city.

His wife rode at his side in a procession of open cars.

Just as the cars rounded a curve toward the center of town, shots were fired. The cars sped on but the leader was mortally wounded. He died minutes later.

No, it's not a scenario of President John F. Kennedy's assassination. It all happened in this Oriental-looking capital of Bosnia on June 28, 1914, fifty years ago. The victims were the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg.

There are many parallels between the killings, and one major difference. Franz Ferdinand's murder set off World War I.

HATE BITTER

In the Europe of 1914 the hatreds were bitter and basic, nowhere more so than in the Balkans. Many Bosnians, perhaps most of them, considered all Austrians and Hungarians their deadly enemies.

Franz Ferdinand envisioned a transformation of his empire that would have given his Bosnian subjects more rights. Little of this was known at the time. To most Bosnians he was the Austrian conqueror, the hated oppressor. Some of those who knew of his ideas were enraged by them. They were Serbs, and they wanted Bosnia to break loose from Austria-Hungary and join the independent kingdom of Serbia.

It was a Bosnian Serb who killed him, the culmination of a plot organized in Serbia.

Franz Ferdinand, 51, looked forward to inheriting the throne soon from his 84-year-old uncle.

His killer was young, of poor family, and afflicted with half-baked political ideas. Gavrilo Princip, 19, had been at school in Serbia where his extreme nationalism was considered quite normal.

Princip had tuberculosis. Some historians think he was running a fever during all the time he plotted the murder. The plot was hatched in Serbia and was heavily aided, if not actually organized, by a high Serbian officer.

IDENTIFIED

He was Col. Dragutin Dimitrijevic, head of both Serbian military intelligence and of a conspiratorial organization called the Black Hand. He later claimed to have gotten the money from the Russian military attache in Belgrade. The Russians denied it, but a doubt persists.

Princip was captured after a scuffle on the spot. He tried to kill himself by taking cyanide, but the poison did not work. He died in prison four years later, probably from a combination of the cyanide, ill treatment and neglect of his tuberculosis.

Three conspirators were executed for the crime at Sarajevo, though Princip was spared because of his youth. Others are still alive. One, who lost his courage and hid his bomb, got to be a cabinet minister in Yugoslavia.

Col. Dimitrijevic was executed later by his own people for another and cloudier cloak-and-dagger episode, an alleged attempt on the life of the Serbian crown prince.

The murder at Sarajevo is still generally condoned. There is a museum commemorating the event on the spot it occurred, where the Princip Bridge leads into the Street of the Yugoslav's People's Army.

Florida Students Learning Of Communism In Schools

EDITOR'S NOTE — There was a time, not long ago, when communism could scarcely be mentioned in school. Now it's a required course in many high schools, on the theory that you can't fight it unless you know what it is. Here's a look at how Florida handles the subject, and the students' reactions.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—You watch their eager attention in class, you listen to their spirited debates, you marvel at their grasp of world affairs — and suddenly you think:

If the turncoats of the Korean War could have had the course on communism these high school students are getting, there might have been no turncoats.

"It's wild," said Sharon Hutchinson, a senior at Terry Parker High School.

"I mean, the way the Communists put their own special meaning on words — peace, imperialism, socialism, even communism. To us, 'peaceful coexistence' means the nations of the world living together in peace; to them it means world communism."

BACK YEARS

Nagging memory takes you back nine years to a little Army stockade in the shadow of San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge, and an interview with three returned Korean War turncoats.

"The Chinese made it sound real fine," Lewie Griggs had said then.

"They used to talk to us (the turncoats) a lot about life in the United States, all about the depression, racial segregation, and so on. Well, I knew there'd been a depression, and I knew we had racial segregation.

"I never was sure when they were telling the truth and when they were lying. They mixed me up with words."

Ken Mayes, another Terry Parker senior, said, "This course creates a sense of awareness — you read the papers more, you're interested in world affairs, you know what's going on."

ENJOYED

And nine years ago, Otho G. Bell had said, "Sure, I made propaganda broadcasts and I signed petitions. I signed every damn thing they put in front of me. I was too dumb. They aided me. They made up the stuff and I signed it. I didn't know what it was all about."

Joyce Wittenauer of Terry Parker put it this way: "This is the one high school course I've enjoyed most of all. We must understand the Soviet system before we can defend our own system, even to ourselves."

Turncoat William A. Cowart had defended his actions this way: "I didn't know anything about communism. Ask any soldier what he knows about communism — he won't know. He'll say he hates it — but he doesn't know what it is."

Thousands of U.S. high schools have been teaching their students at least something about communism in recent years.

Usually, the instruction comes in a short unit, 6 to 9 weeks, inserted somewhere in a course on U.S. or world history, or in the course popularly known as "Problems of Democracy" or "Contemporary Problems" for 12th graders.

Florida has a state law requiring that every public high school student successfully complete a six-week course on "Americanism versus Communism".

Duval County upped the requirement to a full 18-week semester. And Terry Parker High, one of the Duval schools, may have set a national precedent by offering an optional full school year, 36-week program.

U.S. schools have been slow to bring a study of communism into the classroom.

For one thing, the climate of the times was against it.

It was less than seven years ago, for instance, that the American Legion reversed its long-standing policy against teaching anything about communism in the public schools.

Even three years ago, only 36 per cent of the school superintendents polled in a national survey said a course on communism should be required.

A second factor is that it is much easier to talk about the evils of communism than to design a high school course on the subject.

QUALIFIED

Where do you get teachers qualified to venture into such deep and turbulent waters? What do you use for a textbook? Whose definition of communism and its dangers do you adopt?

These are some of the problems Florida educators grappled with when the law requiring a six-week course in communism became effective in the 1962-63 school year.

Fred Turner, the state's textbook chief, was in charge of preparing a teacher's guide for the course, with the help of a 13-member committee.

Pressure from extremist groups was immediate, and heavy.

"Some of the committee members wanted the guide to say that the federal government in Washington has been infiltrated by Communists," Turner said.

"Some people wanted us to go even farther and say that Communists controlled the government.

"There also was pressure on us to paint Socialists and Communists with the same brush. They overlook the fact that Mayor Willy Brandt of Berlin is one of Europe's leading Socialists and, at the same time, one of Europe's leading anti-Communists."

Despite the pressures, the teacher's guide stated bluntly: "Individuals and organizations who use the Communist label for everyone and every organization they do not like, do damage in the battle against communism."

Now, two years later, Turner believes most of the bugs have been taken out.

"The teachers, generally, seem satisfied with the way things are going," he said.

"Many of them, however, believe more than six weeks should be spent on the course, and virtually all of them believe they need more preparation.

LIKE COURSE

"The youngsters all seem to like the course. We have had some complaints from those who get part of their instruction in any course. They want face-to-face discussion."

Florida still has its problems, however.

One is improving the qualifications of the teachers. Few of them have had an opportunity to study communism in depth.

This is being met with special summer courses and workshops designed to give the teachers a better background.

Florida State University, a major source of teachers for the state, now requires all prospective social studies teachers to take a special course based on the communism program.

Within the framework of the state law and the teacher's guide, Florida communities have been given considerable freedom in developing the Communist study program.

Students at Terry Parker High must take it for at least a semester, and they have the option of a more detailed one-year course. About 25 per cent of this year's seniors enrolled in the longer course.

The Terry Parker program is much more than just a detailed history of communism, contrasted in black and white terms with "Americanism."

"We start out by dipping into philosophy," said Mrs. Josie P. Messer, chairman of the school's social studies department.

"We discuss what is truth? What is a moral code? What is a value system?

"The students would love to get much deeper into this, but they aren't really ready for it."

There also is emphasis on critical, analytical reading.

Floyd Falany, who teaches the course three times a week over the local educational television station, said:

MORE ADULTS

"Most seniors, and perhaps more adults, seem to believe that if something is in writing it must be true. They must be warned about extremist literature from any source."

With this background, the course moves into a study of the historical background — the industrial revolution, Marx' criticism of capitalism, and a review of Russian history.

On a typical day this spring, students in the one-semester course were discussing the problems Stalin faced when he assumed power in 1928: the fact that there were more peasants than workers, Russia was 50 years behind the capitalist nations, there was a shortage of food, and the buildup of Germany posed a threat from the outside.

That same day, students in the one-year course were debating U.S. foreign policy: the containment policy that grew out of World War II, the Cuban missile crisis, Laos, De Gaulle, and U.S. aid to Franco Spain.

These were no dry, stodgy, fact-filled lectures; they were spirited class discussions, with everyone taking part.

Mrs. Messer answered every question with a question of her own, skillfully guiding the students, keeping them always involved.

There are now three state-adopted textbooks in Florida, although not all of them are available to all students.

"As more materials, such as books and films, become available, we probably will move into a full-year course for everyone" Mrs. Messer said. "That probably will be in the 1965-66 school year."

In 1960, Soviet Premier Khrushchev predicted that the children of today's Americans would live under communism.

A visit to Terry Parker High School just might change his mind.

Elephant In Family Room Fulfills Dream

By JANICE CLARK
Correspondent

HUTTIG, Ark. — An elephant in the family room marks the realization of a lifelong dream spun by an Arkansas boy who grew up reading of Teddy Roosevelt's dramatic exploits in Africa.

Mounted on the end wall of the 45-foot den of Fred Johnson, of Huttig, Ark., is the head of an African bull elephant, his huge ears flaring out on each side, and his trunk tossed high as though trumpeting defiance of the puny people who look on him with profound respect.

Hanging the elephant in his home was the last chapter of a safari Johnson took into Africa following many years of hunting big game on this continent. The prize trophy from Kenya, which has been years in the process of being properly mounted by a Wyoming taxidermist, has finally been shipped by boxcar to Huttig, along with two rhinocerous heads.

The story began more than half a century ago, when the elephant was just fighting his way into a herd. Half a world away from the African jungle, in Fordyce, Arkansas, a sandy-haired boy began his life-long love affair with Teddy Roosevelt. He read every word he could get his hands on of Roosevelt's hunting in our own and the Canadian wild west, and then of his safaris into Africa. Few would have laid odds that the boy, son of a railroad construction worker, would some day head a safari of 14 native carriers, a white hunter, and one of the finest taxidermists in this country back over the romantic trails of which the one-time president wrote.

DIDN'T RETURN

There is more than a faint touch of Horatio Alger in the story of Fred Johnson, a quiet, unassuming citizen of Huttig. In telling his own story, Fred says, "I was permitted to finish the ninth grade. My father went to war in 1915 and never came back." Fred dropped out of school then to take care of the family. He went to work for the El Dorado Times, where he learned the printing trade. He says, "I early conceived the idea that I could never do anything as long as I worked for the other fellow. I'd have to work for myself." So he came to Huttig and bought the Huttig News, which at that time was a two-page weekly. Through the years he built it up into a 12 to 14 page paper. This was done by following the old adage, "Early to bed and early to rise . . ."

POCKET FULL

Once a week he would walk four miles through the pre-dawn dark from Huttig to Felsenthal to catch a freight train at 4:00 a.m., and ride the 15 miles to Strong. There he would solicit ads up and down the main street of Strong until the 9:30 passenger train left for El Dorado. He "worked" El Dorado all around the Square until time for the trains to take him back to Strong, and then to Felsenthal — and the walk through the evening dark back to Huttig, "with my pocket full of ads!"

Always a man who planned his life, he said, "I was determined to marry at an early age and have my family while young enough to enjoy the children." So, at 21, he married Miss Maye Fullerton, a Glenmora, Louisiana, girl who had moved to Huttig about when he did. The couple were married in 1921, and had two children, a boy and a girl, whom they did "enjoy" while they were young, and who are now married and live in nearby El Dorado and North Little Rock.

THE SILKEN sheen of the Cape Buffalo's black fur is emphasized by the crescent - shaped black horns and the jet - black nose. Along the wall to the left of the Buffalo is the Zebra, Oryx and Hartebeeste. On the floor in the foreground is the wild dog. In the wall is the smallest antelope in the world, the six - to - eight pound dik - dik. The lesser kudu stands at Johnson's right.

Whenever Fred had any money to invest he began buying worn-out farm land as it became available at the low prices which prevailed some years ago. In this part of Arkansas, where pine grows rapidly, and hungry mills provide a steady market for treecrops, that worn-out land has, through the years, yielded harvests to augment Fred's income from his paper, and his job as Postmaster at Huttig.

HUNTER

Always a hunter in southern Arkansas's deep pine forests, Fred eventually began to step into the huge tracks left by his boyhood idol, Teddy Roosevelt. In addition to our own Western Rockies, he has taken one trip into Mexico and five hunting trips into Canada, including trips into British Columbia, Alberta and the Yukon Territory. His memories of that desolate country remain vivid. His sense of history was set afire as he traveled over the old Dawson Trail where the '49ers went into the Klondike. He says, "My most exciting kill there surely could be nothing but the grizzly," glancing over at the deep, tawny coat of the bear mounted in the room. "She was eating blueberries with two cubs, and was about 80 yards from me when I saw her — her whole face all blue with berries." This grizzly was shot three times before she vanished in the thick undergrowth. Fred and the camp cook crawled through the dense growth of mountain spruce following the bloody tracks. As the thought of an enraged wounded bear hiding nearby bore in on them, the cook said, "Mr. Johnson, let's give this up. I'm scared! Let's send an Indian back tomorrow." Then they saw the bear, just over a log where she had finally dropped.

One of the most memorable pages Johnson turns in his book of rich experiences is one that tells of when "Up in the Arctic Circle, in the Wind River Country in the northern Yukon Territory, I saw 10,000 caribou in their winter migration. They were leaving the frozen tundra and heading into the mountains to winter — " and stretched through the valley in one unbelievable living river of the great animal.

There came the day when this man, who tends to sit down and take stock of his life ever so often before plotting a change in its course, said, "I found I was working all year long in order to do what I really wanted for five weeks out of the year." So, he sold his newspaper, turned some of his trees to cash, and planned the real high point of his life, the dream of all his dreams. Fred Johnson, the little boy from Fordyce who had fallen in love with the adventurous life of one of our most dramatic presidents, began to plan a safari into deep Africa — Nairobi in Kenya Territory, and Tanganyika, where the mighty African elephants still roam in herds.

"IN THE BUSH"

With Col. Gibson Peterson, of Casper, Wyoming, one of this country's foremost taxidermists, Fred Johnson was outfitted for 60 days "in the bush," by Safariland Ltd., of London. During their two months in Africa they say the giant Watussi natives with their pigmy slaves. Five miles out of Nairobi, a city of 115,000 people, they saw gazelle and giraffe grazing in the plains. Fred says, "I'd heard that Africa comes alive at night, and believe me it does! The leopards coughing give you the creeps. For four nights I didn't sleep, with the hyenas almost putting their heads in our tent — and their unearthly shriek — and the lions roaring. You know, the female lion does all the killing and the male just prowls around and roars. The female even drags the carcass over for the male.

GUNS LOADED

"One night six to eight hippos came out of Lake Manyara to feed on the reeds about 20 feet from our camp. There we were, just 17 of us, with guns loaded hoping those 3,000 pounds of hippo wouldn't detect us. It was electrifying, crouching there hearing those two-ton animals feeding, thinking what would happen if they charged." The hippopotamus herd finally wandered off after four hours of snuffling and snorting at the camp's fringes, their dull sense of sight and smell having left the quivering group un-detected.

As he sits surrounded by the trophies from his years of hunting Fred comments, "The leopard is the animal I'd put as most dangerous. He's down your throat before you know he's there. The first one I got we tracked two hours. He was 20 feet away when he whirled and charged us. I shot him with a .300." A pair of beautifully matched leopards prowl just before his elephant against the north wall of his museum.

MID-CHARGE

The magnificent cape buffalo was another spine-tingling adventure. The huge herd bull was dropped in mid-charge, too — 20 yards from the hunters. This knack for placing a fatal shot in a charging animal is no accident, not is it hereditary. Fred spent a full year in intensive study of the anatomy of the animals he would encounter, in order to score a kill from any angle. No guide, or "white hunter," is happy taking a man beyond the prairie herds into the deep jungle of the lion, hippo, buffalo, leopard and elephant until he knows that man can stand steady in the path of a charging animal and shoot accurately. Many times there are no chances for a second shot in big game hunting.

Each animal is a separate story and a forever-green memory for Fred — the rhino, hartebeeste, zebra, gazelle, impala, antelope —all. But the real climax of his great adventure was the elephant!

Fred and his party were 13 days on that elephant hunt, and stalked the herd five hours in the torrid, dusty region, waiting for a lapse which would leave an opening in the solid circle the harem females maintained around their great bull. Finally one cow stepped over for a tuft of grass and left the opening for Fred's shot! He placed two shots from his double-barreled .470 elephant rifle into the heart of the jungle giant. The bull fell to his knees, plunging his curving tusks deep in the sandy soil. The herd of cows trumpeted and wept with nerve-shattering squealings, and it was almost an hour before the last grieving female wandered off. Fred says, "I'd never want to kill another elephant!"

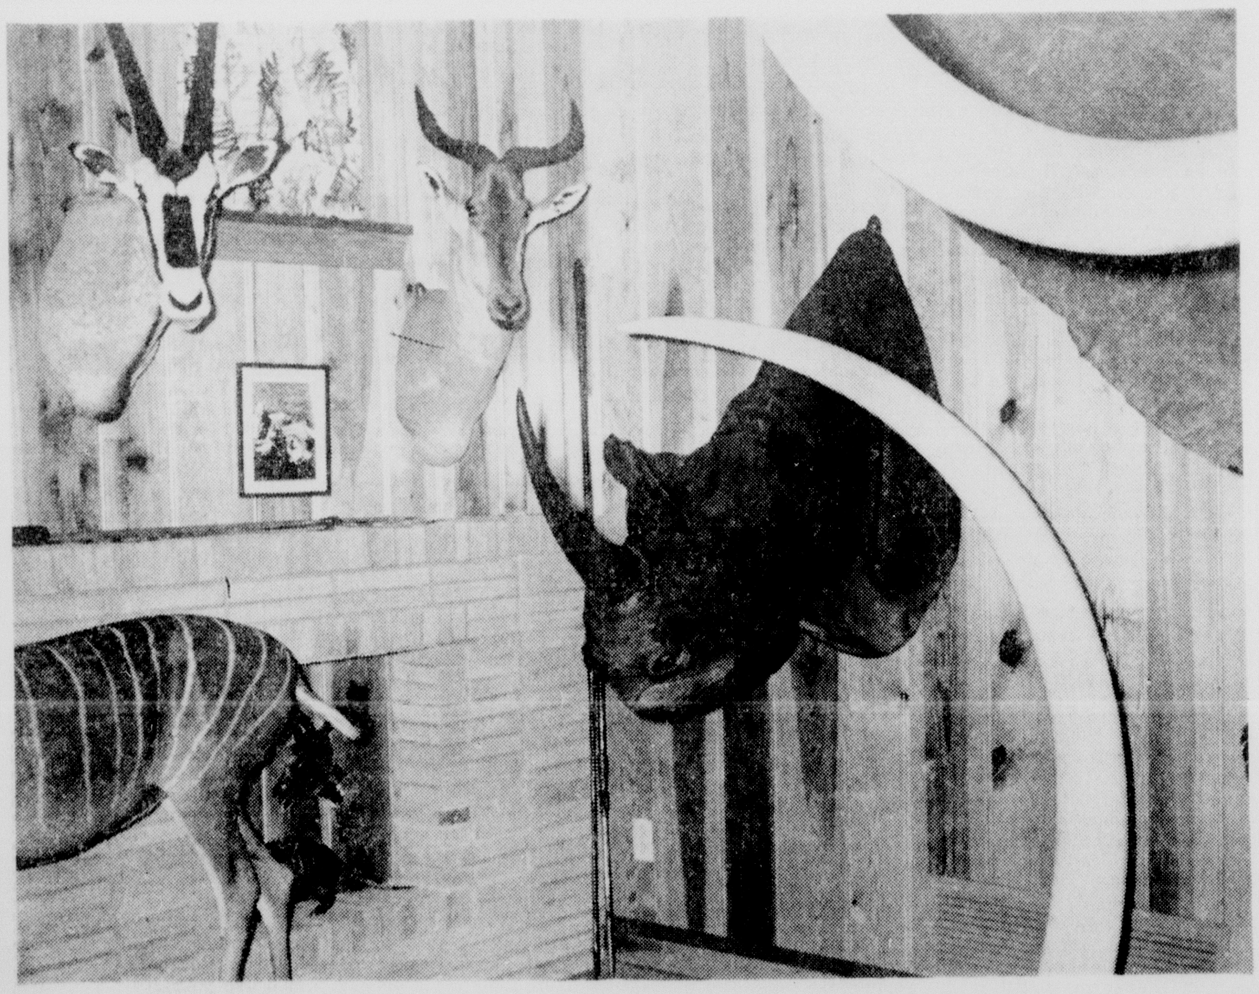
And now that head of a true African monarch hangs in Fred Johnson's museum of animals from North America and Africa. The handling of this last trio of African trophies — the two rhinocerous heads and the elephant, was no small feat.

They occupied an entire boxcar as they came into the station at Huttig, and surely presented a problem unique not only to Huttig, but to almost any town or metropolis you can name outside of our major cities! It took the arduous labors of Fred and a corps of 12 to 15 good friends to hoist the 1200 pound of trophies onto a flatbed trailer and haul them to his home. A large area had to be removed from one wall of the trophy room to admit the curving trunk and massive head of the great animal. Then, the end wall was reinforced with steel beams, and two men stood outside with steel cables and pulleys while Fred and five others hoisted from the inside, where they clambered on specially-built scaffolding to lift the heavy head into position. The tusks on the trophy are duplicates of the real ones, made of papier mache to reduce the weight of the head. Below, mounted in heavy iron bases, the real shafts of ivory, which weigh slightly more than 100 pounds each, curve 90 inches from base to perfect tips.

SATURATION

And Mrs. Johnson? This gentle lady who has stayed at home while her husband has followed his dreams around the world, had almost reached the saturation point when this last cargo from the African safari reached Huttig. We asked Fred what her reaction was to this unique addition to her beautiful home. Fred smiled and said, "She just shut the door and let us have at it!"

What will eventually become of the museum of the great animals of two continents? The University of Arkansas has expressed interest in owning the collection, and Fred thinks he will some day pass it on to them. It is a beautifully mounted collection, and many of the animals are protected now and can no longer be hunted.



ON THE WEST wall of Johnson's den hangs the Oryx and the Hartebeeste. The rhinocerous hangs on the back wall, with the curving tusk of the elephant reaching from its iron base on the floor. The papier mache tusk in the mounted elephant head curves out of the picture at upper right.

Old Papers Interesting: News Is Rather Modern

By FRANCES PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

An issue of the Monroe News-Star dated April 29, 1921, and a copy of an 1893 Columbia weekly newspaper, the Caldwell Watchman, are two of the old papers in the collection of Mrs. J. C. Brooks of West Monroe.

Papers, clippings and pamphlets make up the biggest part of Mrs. Brooks' collection, given to her by her mother-in-law. Various other trinkets are included, among them a small orange-colored necklace that Mrs. Brooks said is made of tiny bones and is more than 200 years old.

According to Mrs. Brooks, her husband's mother, Mrs. Alicia Brooks of Columbia, made a hobby of saving old clippings and papers. When she found that her daughter-in-law was also interested in documents of the past, she turned the collection over to her.

MOST INTERESTING

The old Monroe paper was Mrs. Brooks' choice as the most interesting item among the newspapers. She pointed out that although the make-up of the front page was different, featuring both editorial cartoons and advertisements, several attitudes stated were quite similar to those today.

Anti-American propoganda, excessive requests for foreign aid and too much tolerance on the part of the United States are satirically depicted in the front-page cartoon. "Anti-government demonstrations" by "radical groups" were described in one story as happening in Chicago, Ill.; Ansonia, Conn.; and Gary, Ind.

The lead story listed that day's activity in district criminal court, which was highlighted by the case of a man who robbed several area businesses, including a local jewelry store, and hid $1,000 worth of loot in a cave on the river bank. The robber had a streak of bad luck, as the rising water washed his cache away, then he was arrested, tried and sentenced to eight to ten years in the penitentiary.

Another front page story outlined the street construction underway in West Monroe, with a paved street being installed for three blocks from the Ouachita River bridge to what is now the corner of Coleman Avenue and North Second Street, then to the Methodist Church.

TEAM'S FORTUNES

Glowing headlines charted the course of the Monroe baseball squad on the same front page. Over a story stating that the team would play a group from Vicksburg, the headline read: "Monroe baseball team prepares for siege of Vicksburg, plays Mississippi on next Sunday. Great game expected on banks of Father of Waters next Sunday afternoon."

Mrs. Brooks' favorite item in the old paper was an advertisement on the second page. A West Monroe dress shop ran the following ad:

"We run 30-day accounts and seems that some of our customers have forgotten it. Therefore we must ask that you pay your present account May the first and not later than May 10th. Nothing else will be charged until present account is paid."

"Business must have been pretty good in those days," was Mrs. Brooks' comment. "Nobody would dare to do that sort of thing today."

Mantle Sparks Yankees In Victory Over Chisox

Loss Is 3rd Straight For Loop Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle hit his 11th home run and drove in two runs Saturday as the New York Yankees took the third straight game of their series with the American League leading Chicago White Sox 6-3.

Mantle, batting .571 right-handed and .216 left-handed for a combined average of .331, singled in the first, hit a homer into the right field bleachers in the fourth, walked intentionally in the fifth and singled in the seventh before leaving for pinch runner Hector Lopez.

Al Downing started for the Yankees but gave way to a pinch hitter in the fourth. Bill Stafford pitched into the ninth and was credited with his third victory. Pete Mikkelsen finished. Rookie Frank Kreutzer, a lefty making his first start of the year for the White Sox, left after four innings with the game tied, and relief man Hoyt Wilhelm was charged with his third defeat.

FINSTERWALD CATCHING-UP

Lema Blows Last 2 Holes, But Maintains Buick Lead

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) —Tony Lema bogied the last two holes Saturday and had to settle for a 72 and a diminishing two-stroke lead over Dow Finsterwald at the end of three rounds of the $66,000 Buick Open Golf Tournament.

Finsterwald shot a three-under 69 for a 54-hole total of 211, compared with Lema's 207. Mason Rudolph was in third position at 211.

Phil Rodgers, who held the first round lead with a 67, blew to an 84 and missed making the cut by three strokes.

Lema wants to become the first pro golfer in almost two years to score back-to-back tourney victories.

Jack Nicklaus, who passed up the tourney here for extra practice rounds for next week's National Open, was the last pro to capture two consecutive tourneys when he won in Seattle and Portland, Ore. in September of 1962. Lema won the Thunderbird open last Sunday.

Lema, attracting an estimated 90 per cent of the more than 17,000 fans, did not find the 7,280-yard course as easy as he did in Friday's second round when he shot a 66.

But he had enough of the master touch left in the first nine and made the turn with a four-stroke lead over Mason Rudolph.

SNAP 3-GAME STREAK

Giants Win 3-2 On Cepeda Rap

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Orlando Cepeda's two-run double in the seventh inning powered San Francisco past Milwaukee 6-4 Saturday, snapping the Giants' three-game losing streak.

Cepeda doubled off reliever Jack Smith after Willie Mays and Willie McCovey singled with two out.

The Giants had taken a 4-2 lead in the sixth on McCovey's single and Jim Hart's homer off starter Hank Fischer over the left field fence.

Milwaukee came back with two in the seventh on singles by pinch hitter Ty Cline and Hank Aaron sandwiched around Felipe Alou's second triple. The triple knocked starter Juan Marichal from the game.

The Braves threatened in the ninth as Alou doubled with one out but got no further than third as Billy O'Dell came on and retired Eddie Mathews and Aaron.

Marichal, trying for his ninth victory, ran into immediate difficulties as ex-teammate Alou opened the game with a triple to right center.

FINAL ROUND SET TODAY

Clayton Cole Tied For First Spot In Alexandria Tourney

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Clayton Cole of Monroe went three over par on the last two holes Saturday, but still tied Shirley Picard of Lafayette for the lead after three rounds in the 72-hole Louisiana state amateur golf championship.

Cole, 23, who played the difficult Alexandria Country Club course in par 72, picked up four strokes on the veteran Picard, who slumped to a 76 after leading the 45th annual tournament for two rounds.

Their 217 total left Cole and Picard two strokes ahead of young Rick Nevils of Baton Rouge and three ahead of three Shreveport youngsters, Don Easterwood, Johnny Hopkins and Robert Flager, who finished the third round with 220.

Moving gradually into contention with a 221 total after a poor start was John Martin of Lafayette.

Medalist Albin Johnson of Alexandria, who was one stroke off the pace after one round and three back after 36 holes, shot a 78 for a 222 total.

Collegiate Jimmy Hoppen of Bogalusa, who shared the first round lead with Picard and 18-year-old Hopkins, skidded to a 73 and wound up with a 224 total, one stroke ahead of pre-tourney favorite, Buddy Short of Lafayette.

The tournament will end with a 18-hole round Sunday.

While Picard, a detective captain, was having his troubles, Cole slowly chopped into the deficit and threatened to take the lead. But his back nine jinx finally caught up with him on the dog-leg 17th, where he had to one-putt for a double - bogey six. Cole also bogied the 18th, but finished with 35-37—72 and a share of the lead.

Picard hit a bogie snag on the third round and shot 37-39—76.

Nevils was in fine position to start the final round. The LSU star has knocked off a stroke each day, shooting 74-73—72 in that order.

Easterwood slumped to a 76 Saturday, while young Hopkins had a 75. Flagler remained steady with his second straight 73 after opening with a 74.

Arizona State, Seton Hall Are Both Eliminated

OMAHA (AP) — Unheralded Maine stunned Arizona State 4-2, eliminating the nation's No. 2 team and top-ranked Missouri ousted Seton Hall 3-1 behind left-hander Jack Stroud in third round games of the College World Series Saturday.

Minnesota and Southern California, the only remaining unbeaten teams in the tournament, met in the second night game. Missouri scored two runs in the seventh with the help of two Seton Hall errors to win the afternoon game.

Seven errors by Arizona State resulted in two unearned runs for Maine but the Yankee Conference champs rapped 11 hits, three by Larry Coughlin, and left 14 men on base. All of Maine's runs came off starter Ron Lea. Sam Cook was touched for five hits but shut out the Black Bears in the last 4 1-3 innings.

Right-hander Dick Dolloff was the Maine winner and Joe Ferris, tall sophomore who beat Seton Hall in the first round, pitched 2 1-3 innings of scoreless relief ball.

Races Set Today For Speedway

Joe Mallard returns to action today in car number 88 at the West Monroe Speedway, according to Roy Smith, Speedway owner.

The popular area driver has been absent from the track scene for the past several years following a race accident. He will pilot the 1955 Chevrolet in an effort to put a hault to Floyd Cook's winning ways with his number 15, a 1958 Ford.

Smith said he expected several new cars and drivers to make appearances today. Time trials will start at 1:30 p.m. with the track opening for practice at noon.

Graham Picks All-Star Squad

CHICAGO (AP)—A 47-player collegiate squad, with emphasis on passing and big running backs, was selected Saturday to face the champion Chicago Bears of the National Football League in the 31st All-Star football game in Soldier Field Friday night, Aug. 7.

The squad was picked by Coach Otto Graham, whose All-Star squad last year handed the Green Bay Packers a stunning 20-17 setback.

Among the 33 schools represented on the brawny and talented squad, Southern California, Ohio State and Iowa lead in contributions with three each.

Eight other schools, including Pittsburgh, Nebraska, Michigan State, Penn State, Miami, Fla., Arizona State and unbeaten national champion Texas, each will be represented by two players.

Graham, himself a former star passer for the Cleveland Browns and now coach of the U.S. Coast Guard team, selected three sharp pitching quarterbacks. They are Miami's George Mira, Southern California's Pete Beathard and Jack Concannon of Boston College.

COMIN' UP AFIELD

Doe Season In Committee

With Sam Hanna

Hearing On Tuesday

A bill to close the doe season in Louisiana for two years will be heard in a House committee hearing scheduled for Tuesday at Baton Rouge.

The bill would not permit the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission to open any-deer season for two years. It simply closes the season.

Needless to say, the wildlife department is opposed to the measure, which has already passed the Senate and has a good chance of passing the House.

When Joe Herring, chief of the fish and game division, appeared before the Senate committee considering the bill, he pointed out that most of Louisiana's game management areas are under lease.

Because of this, he said the state has difficulty in making arrangements with various companies on leasing their property for public hunting.

But most important, Joe Herring told the commission the timber companies are interested in game management, that the timber companies are interested in controlling the deer herds on their property.

In so many words, the timber companies do not like to see an over-population of deer, because deer will eat the small seedlings on the company property.

What this boils down to is this. If the state closes the doe season for two years, then the state will have trouble with the companies leasing property for public hunting.

Therefore, the bill could lead to the state losing property for public hunting or it could block the state from obtaining additional property for public hunting.

And this would be bad for the sportsmen in general.

Besides that, the bill puts the Legislature in a position of saying right here and now that Louisiana's deer herds are well-balanced all over the state. There's not a member of the Legislature that knows whether this is true or not.

Louisiana's any-deer seasons are opened where the needs demand an any-deer season. Therefore, it would be foolish for the legislature to tell the wildlife department that Louisiana doesn't need an any-deer season for the next two years.

The thing that brought about the doe bill was the deer kill of 1100 on opening day last year in the Chicago Mill Game Management Area on the Tensas River.

That's a lot of deer and it would seem on the surface that it would knock a big hole in the deer population of that area. But the records show that for the past several years the total kill on the Chicago Mill area has been on the increase—and there have been any-deer season there before last year's any-deer season.

Others contend that the any-deer seasons have destroyed the deer herds of the Delta, but they don't take into consideration that the Delta is giving ground to the bulldozer. Delta woodlands are becoming a thing of the past.

So let's don't cripple the areas that are building up deer populations by handcuffing our game program with a law that may be popular emotionally.

The bill to close the doe season for two years is just so much hogwash. It should be killed in committee.

Catahoula Land Sale

A land sale in Catahoula Parish a few days ago proves that the state made a good purchase in the Saline Wildlife Management Area.

Unofficially, we understand that the Morrison-Quirk Grain Corporation of Hastings, Neb. paid $50 per acre for 17,610 acres of swampland—uncleared.

If you'll recall, the state bought 50,000 acres — located next to the tract that sold Thursday — for $29 per acre. And then there was a howl because the land could have been bought for $6 per acre a few years ago.

But that was before the land market in this section went crazy.

The swampland that was bought by the Nebraska firm will be cleared for farming purposes, which is following in the trend of things in the Fifth District.

We may think that the Louisiana swamps aren't good for anything, but the out-of-state folks realize a good think when they see it.

What used to be the Beouf River Swamp in Morehouse Parish is now a beautiful field of wheat.

Of course, the basic point we're driving at is the state's need to buy property for public hunting—that is if the public is to have a place to hunt in future years.

Some say that's socialism. But it's no more socialism than public parks, public pools, public schools, and so on and so on.

Public Hearing Set

If you want to be heard on the hunting seasons for this coming fall and winter, then the place for you to go is the public hearing to be conducted by the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission at Alexandria, June 26-27th.

The two-day hearings will be held at the Holiday Inn in Alexandria.

All interested sportsmen will be given a chance to appear before the commission with requests for the setting of the coming seasons.

This is a good thing for the sportsmen and was started by E. R. McDonald Sr. of Newellton when he served as chairman of the commission.

Testimony at the hearings is tape-recorded. Then the taped transcript is reviewed by the commission prior to the fixing of seasons.

Public opinion is considered.

The hearings will fall on Friday and Saturday in hopes of giving all sportsmen a chance to speak out.

While on the subject of the commission, there's a bill in the Legislature to permit the governor to reappoint members of the commission.

Sponsored by Sen. George Lee of Alexandria, the bill is drafted so that Ray Whatley Jr., the new commission chairman, can be renamed to the commission.

If the state administration wants to observe the intent of the law that created the wildlife commission, this bill will not become law.

The commission was established with members to serve staggering terms so that members would not be under political influence.

Little Man's Corner

It was hot, but the fish were biting and the little men made news afield.

Frog hunters may want to be reminded that the 10-month season opened June 1st. The season was closed during April and May.

Frogs can be taken with the aid of a head light or any other visible light and by means of mechanical devices known as frog catchers, provided these do not puncture the skin or redden the meat of the frog.

Frog hunters can't use spears or other devices which puncture the skin or redden the meat of frogs.

And there's a limit on the size of frogs. Common bullfrogs have to be 5½ inches or more in size and the Southern Bullfrogs, commonly known as lagoon frogs, must be 3½ inches or more.

So much for frogs. Now for the fishermen.

At Lake Providence, John Henry Burton got the limit of bass two days running. Van Hicks and Jim Herrington landed 21 bass.

And Prince Gill caught a 4-pound bass. A youngster, 4-year-old Tim Hamilton, landed a bass that weighed 1½-pounds. He was fishing with a rod and reel.

Locally, at Black Bayou, Joe H. Jackson got 15 specs, one weighing two pounds.

Fisherman Bosley landed 90 bream while Frank Savannah caught 85. W. C. Johnson caught 36 specs and 40 bream.

From West Monroe, Phil Carithers got 90 bream. And from Anchorage, Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Doss caught 118 specs. Next day they caught 40. Fishing with them were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Barrett.

From Winnsboro, Leo Welch and Larry Rogers landed 40 barfish at Yucatan. They weighed from three to four pounds. Bill Butler of Winnsboro caught a 36-pound yellow cat in Lake St. John. Bill was fishing deep with a Dive Bomber, using a 20-pound test line and net.

Guy Washington of Vidalia got the limit of white perch in the Blue Hole and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Wall of Ferriday got the limit of bream in Old River Lake.

From Monroe, Bill and Martin Maxwell caught the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

Willie Goss of Vidalia caught a good string of bass at the Red River pits and Ed Dunnagan of Vidalia got the limit of white perch at Deer Park.

Those two regulars, Al Strickland and Percy May of Vidalia, landed the limit of bass at Deer Park.

On Lake Concordia, Ed Carroll of Ferriday, John W. Bently and Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt Barnett of Ferriday, also Charlie Young of Ferriday, all got bass. Clarence and Charles Weeks of Ferriday did too.

Also from Ferriday, John Burke, Bill Carter and Earl H. Miller all had good bass fishing trips at Lake Concordia.

The next pro football season will run until Jan. 10, 1965 with the Pro Bowl game scheduled for that date in Los Angeles.

COMPLETE SWEEP OVER CARDS

Dodgers Do It Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Rookie Wes Parker slammed two doubles and scored the deciding run on a two-base hit by Tommy Davis Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers completed a three-game sweep by edging St. Louis 3-2.

The Cardinals, who led the National League in hitting last season, went 25 innings without scoring before Tim McCarver homered with Bill White aboard on a single in the sixth.

This was the sixth victory for the Dodgers in their last eight games and the ninth loss for the Cardinals in their last 12.

The Dodgers, with 28 victories in 56 games, are playing .500 ball for the first time since the second day of the season.

Parker led off the Dodger fourth with his first double and reached third on an infield single by Tommy Davis. A single by Frank Howard scored Parker, and a sacrifice fly by Doug Camilli brought in Davis.

The Dodgers made it 3-0 in the fifth when Parker and Davis hit back-to-back doubles with two out.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Joe Doerr's two-run single in the top of the ninth inning gave West Liberty State, W.Va., a 6-4 victory over Grambling, La. and forced a second game in the double elimination NAIA baseball tournament finals Saturday night.

The two teams started the second game at 10 p.m. CST.

West Liberty, reaching the finals through the losers' bracket, took a 1-0 lead in the first inning of the first game when Gordon Long singled and Doerr doubled him home. West Liberty made it 3-1 in the second inning on three hits and two errors.

Hinton Carries Washington Past Minnesota, 4-2

WASHINGTON (AP)— Chuck Hinton drove in the tie-breaking run with a sixth-inning single as the Washington Senators downed the Minnesota Twins 4-2 Saturday.

Ed Brinkman, Don Zimmer and Hinton singled after two were out in the sixth. The senators added a run in the seventh on singles by Don Lock and Jim King and Chuck Cottier's squee bunt.

The Twins lost two players in baseline incidents. Zimmer slid into Bernie Allen at second in breaking up a double play. The preliminary diagnosis was that Allen suffered a torn ligament in the left leg.

Bob Allison spiked pitcher Garland Shifflett in a mixup over fielding Cottier's squeeze bunt, and Shifflett had to leave the game.

Claude Osteen was off to a rocky start but settled down and won his fifth game aided by three double plays.

RUSTON (Special) — Seven prep track stars, three of them also football performers, have signed letters of intent to attend Louisiana Tech, Athletic Director Joe Aillet announced.

An outstanding Arkansas distance ace, Brendan Minihan of Little Rock Catholic, has signed with the Techmen. The other six are Louisiana products.

Gray Easterling and Bo Rosenthal of Bolton, both topnotch hurdlers, signed football pacts with the Bulldogs. Previously, Richie Golmon, Bolton halfback and sprinter, had joined the Tech fold.

Another distance man, Clarence Bell of Jena, also signed a run for the Bulldogs. Butch Daniels of Cotton Valley, a back, is also a track sprint and relay star. T. A. Moore of Minden, a member of the state AA championship squad, is a sprinter and relay star who signed with Tech.

Other prep footballers who signed with Tech and are good track prospects include Chuck Crawford of West Monroe and Jesse Carrigan of Fair Park of Shreveport. They both throw the shot and discus.

The latest signee is Ron Broussard, New Iberia sprinter. Broussard, Golman, Daniels, and Moore should considerably strengthen Tech's relay teams.

Fashion Look Reflected In Furniture Style

The new women's fashions unveiled in Paris could turn up in your living room a couple of years later — on the furniture, as well as the people.

Furniture fashions reflect women's fashions — usually with a time lag of a year or two — points out furniture maker Manfred Steinfeld, head of American of Chicago, a leading maker of furniture.

"The woman shopper probably doesn't realize it, but unconsciously, when she shops for furniture, she looks for the kind of style to which she is accustomed. And it's clothing fashion that gets her to thinking a certain way about style and taste," says Steinfeld.

Furniture makers should expect her to look for furniture with a kinship to what she's wearing, and they can anticipate the fashion trends by following the news from Paris as avidly as, say, dress designers, he believes.

Right now, for instance, the big trend is to prints — the same prints and often the same fabric so popular in women's dresses for the last year or so. That's an easy one to spot. So are color trends: yellow and green by fancier names are "in" in both kinds of fashion.

Not so obvious is the relationship between skirt lengths and the off-the-floor look in furniture.

"Right after World War II, when the 'new look' lowered skirt lengths, furniture came down to the floor too. Now skirts are short, and in furniture emphasis is on leg interest," Steinfeld contends.

Even the comeback of traditional design went hand-in-hand with a greater emphasis on classic elegance in women's fashions, he concludes.

Makeup Pleases 'Other Women'

DALLAS (UPI) — A skin specialist told several thousand physicians recently that women use cosmetics mainly because they want to look good in the eyes of other women, not men.

Dr. John R. Haserick, of Cleveland, Ohio, also said that women who use greasy cosmetics on their faaces are inviting acne.

"Some women think they shouldn't wash their faces and that they must use greasy preparations for good skin health," Dr. Haserick said.

"The fact is, there are more oil glands per square inch on their faces than there are oil wells in Texas."

He added:

"If woman knew what men think about the greasy faces they have to get close to they wouldn't wear greasy makeup at all," he added.

Look Of 30s Swings Back Into Fashion

As the fashion current swings back to the feminine look of the Thirties, the name of Vionnet again crops up in fashion talk. Paul Poiret may have dropped the hemline in 1929, but it was Madeleine Vionnet whose discovery of bias cutting created the essential silhouette of the decade.

Her use of many gores and tucks made her dresses follow every curve, and perhaps couldn't be duplicated today. But her wrap coats are already back — Balenciaga, Givenchy and Simonetta, the top Paris coat designers, all did wrap coats for spring.

This, however, is easy. Can Paris or Seventh Avenue bring back all the workmanship it took to make her clothes?

Varied Trends Noted In New Accessories

The 1964 collections shown by French couturiers produced an assortment of trends in accessories for spring and summer. Hats, for instance, came in wide - brimmed shepherdess shapes in white with black ribbon around a flat crown, the ribbon tied under the chin or dangling down in back at Yves St. Laurent. Dior showed little girl straw hats, the brims turned off the face. Castillo's white straw peaked hats looked like globs of meringue. Cardin's flat little French sailor hats titled over the forehead. The usual upside - down lampshade hats were at Balmain.

Suits Lead Autumn Parade Of Fashion

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

The Fall collections are being made right now for sampling by stores and the fashion press next week. For the first time in years, everyone's talking suits.

Yes, real suits, not knits or jacket costumes that look like suits, but real suits. Perhaps it's the influence of Chanel, that greatest of all suit designers, or perhaps it's just time for suits to stage a comeback.

Undoubtedly the suits glimpsed so far are freshly attractive in a really new way. Several different silhouettes stand out, each as tempting as the other.

First, there's the fitted jacket, usually done in grey flannel or striped menswear, and always worn with either a ruffled blouse or a solf bow blouse. Then there's the soft suit, with lots of pleats, a shirt-sleeve jacket with belted waistline. Third, Chanel continues strong, both in her classic colorful tweeds with braid and her new look of navy blazer with brilliantly striped blouse.

Here and there are the unusual suits, like Alamoor's cutaway suede with the drawstring neckline, or Jack Sarnoff's handsome white ottoman theatre suits.

MRS. DAVID GRAY CADDY

Caddy-Griffing Nuptials Read By Candlelight

In a candlelight ceremony at Memorial Presbyterian church, West Monroe, Miss Margaret Rose Griffing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey L. Griffing, 203 Mitchell Lane, West Monroe, became the bride of David Gray Caddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Caddy of Houston, Texas. Dr. Hugh E. Bradshaw performed the double ring vows at 7 p.m. on June 5.

White urns filled with pink delight roses and mounted on pedestals were interspersed with greenery entwined candelabra holding white tapers to form a background for the ceremony. The couple knelt on a satin prie dieu for the Marriage Prayer sung by Mrs. Donald Logan, accompanied by the organist, Miss Beth Bradshaw, who also played traditional wedding marches.

Mr. Griffing gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white brocade satin was styled with fitted bodice, short sleeves and controlled skirt with a bustle bow above a chapel length train. Seed pearls etched the neckline. Her tiered bouffant veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids atop the Bible her mother carried in her wedding. Tucked into the bouquet was a family heirloom handkerchief.

Miss Willadean Brunet was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Alan Cousans and Mrs. Malcolm Schartzerbach. Candlelighters were Miss Martha Norris and Miss Millie Hislop. The attendants wore short silver metallic lame' dresses with silver slippers and headdresses of illusion over silver bands. The candlelighters wore corsages of pink sweetheart roses and other attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink delight roses.

Serving as best man was John Manes and groomsmen were Alan Cousans and Dr. William Hare. Tommy Reigney served as usher.

Mrs. Griffing was wearing an ashes of roses chiffon gown with lace bodice, matching accessories and pink cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige lace model with matching accessories and beige cymbidium orchids.

The church parlour was scene of the reception which followed. Pink roses and pink candles centered the satin draped bride's table which held the tiered cake, adorned with pink roses and topped with pink satin wedding bells. Mrs. Ruth Hundley served the cake and Mrs. John T. Williams and Mrs. Robert B. Archibald alternated at the punch bowl. Miss Melanie Wood registered guests at a table decorated with sweetheart roses and a memory candle.

Tea girls were Miss Bennie Breese Grant, Mrs. Charles Gaston and Mrs. Kenneth Eppinette.

For a wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains the bride was wearing a pink linen suit, pink straw picture hat and matching accessories. The couple will be at home in Houston. The bride is a graduate of West Monroe high school and received her R.N. degree from Touro Infirmary School of Nursing, New Orleans. Mr. Caddy graduated from Alcee Fortier high school, New Orleans and received his B.S. degree in chemical engineering from Louisiana State University. He is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma fraternity.

Umbrellas Now Utilitarian As String Of Pearls

Do you go out and spend $4000 for a sable - lined raincoat and then carry a prosaic old umbrella with it? Some people do go that far, that is people with $4000 to spend for a raincoat.

Those of us who don't are nevertheless more style - conscious about our appearance in inclemency than ever before. And yet we spoil the effect with an unimaginative bumbershoot.

That's the charge British umbrella manufacturers made in London recently. Then they demonstrated how this utilitarian accessory can be as aesthetic as a string of pearls.

Among the umbrellas shown were square ones for tailored clothes, tweedy ones for the country, and delicate not-quite-parasols for summer costumes.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The warm season has rolled around again, and with it come thoughts of the old swimming hole, except today the old swimming hole isn't what it used to be!

Quite often it is your own pool, just a few steps from your door. Home pools have boomed during the past few years. Or, it may be a municipal pool or the pool at your club, or you may seek out a river or lake or an ocean beach.

Whatever and wherever your swimming hole is, more and more folks are enjoying the fun and health which this sport provides. Very young children and their mothers and grandmothers are in the swim. If the latter two didn't know how, they are learning. Swimming is a wonderful exercise which can be enjoyed at any age.

SITTING AT SIDELINES

If you are still sitting on the sidelines or if you wish to teach a child to swim, make a beginning this summer, not next summer. Many people have an inherent fear of water. The first thing to do is to overcome this fear. You can start in your own bathroom.

Fill the basin with clean water. Take a deep breath, close your mouth and eyes and submerge your face in the water. Lift your face from the water when you feel the necessity to do so and blow the air out through your nose. With a little practice you will be able to keep your face under water for a longer period. At first you may only wet your face. Do not be discouraged!

DEEP BREATH

Then, take a deep breath, sucking the air in quickly through your mouth, close your mouth, submerge your face and blow bubbles by blowing the air out through your nose.

You can do the same things when hanging onto the edge of a pool. Also, when in shallow water or the shallow part of a pool, try this. Take hold of another person's hands. Count, "one, two, three," take deep breaths and submerge. Stay under as long as you can hold your breath For one who is afraid of water the holding of hands and having a companion is of great comfort.

I have a leaflet "Learn To Swim" which takes you on from here. However, this is not just for beginners. It gives you detailed instructions about diving and swimming strokes. If you would like to have it, send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 22 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Shoes Will Star For Fall

In accessories, shoes look like contenders for star honors this coming fall. What with a new shoe material, Corfam, making news, and new colors popping up, shoes will trip brightly into the fall fashion picture.

Styling will divide into two groups, the boots - and - nanny and the elegant shell. Boots will be bigger than ever, with new slim styles and higher boots, while handsomely chunky nanny shoes will accompany suits.

Elegant shells, much in evidence now, will be used for day dresses and evening costumes. Tapered, cut-out and colored in everything from cream to black-and-orange, shells will make their mark with bright colors, worn as contrast accents.

A JUNE BRIDE-ELECT is Miss Patricia Ann Pouncey whose engagement to Louie E. Beebe is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Pouncey of Downsville. He is the son of W. A. Beebe of Oak Grove and the late Mrs. Beebe.

Dressy Costume Advised For Mothers At Wedding

Q: Please help me decide whether a suit or a more dressy costume should be chosen for my son's spring wedding. It is a church wedding at 2 P.M., with a 6 P.M. reception. I am 45, good figure, hair graying.

A: A dressy outfit would be more in keeping with the nature of this wedding and the fact that you are mother of the groom. Bride's mother has first color choice, so find out what she is wearing before choosing your color. Crepe, peau de soie, or lace are good fabric choices for your dress, which can be accompanied by a flower hat, silk bag.

Q: My hat is off to the girl you wrote of who braves the London fog in sheer clinging oilskin. But is this costume supposed to be appropriate for a muggy April in Louisiana?

A: Heavens, no! I send out a variety of fashion photos every week all over the country, so that each editor can run what she likes. It's fun, though, to see what others are wearing, even if it can't be worn in your particular climate.

Q: I'm taking my first cruise to Nassau. Would a simple, white cotton lace dress, low back, be the type of cocktail dress needed, or something more formal? What other kind of clothes are needed?

A: The dress you mention would be fine. These cruises don't require elaborate clothes, just nice ones with lots of color and white. Your simple summer dresses would be fine for day, slacks, too, if you wear them. Sweater jackets are needed for sea breezes, and some kind of little evening wrap, while sleeveless dresses with jackets are also handy for tropical suns. Low walking shoes as well as pumps should be taken.

MISS LYNDAE ANN JOHNSON

Mid-July Wedding Is Calendared

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lyndae Ann Johnson to James Herbert Gilbert is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Johnson of Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Gilbert of West Monroe.

The wedding will be an event of July 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church of Monroe. Rev. Charles B. Littleton will perform the ceremony.

Miss Johnson is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ramsey and the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam W. Johnson, all of Monroe. A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, she attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mr. Gilbert is the grandson of Mrs. Hattie Tolar of Fort Worth, Texas and the late Isaac Gilbert of Tallulah and the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Deckard of Tallulah. He was graduated from West Monroe high school and is presently attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Floral Decor Complements Ladies Parties

Ladies-only gatherings, such as afternoon bridge parties or teas, offer the opportunity to use flower arrangements complemented by accessories you might consider too frilly for groups including both men and women.

Figurines, for example, can add interest and variety to a table centerpiece when properly used, suggests the Society of American Florists. For a frankly feminine centerpiece, nestle two or three bluebirds in a cluster of white carnations with the bases of the figurines hidden under the flowers. Add a few sprigs of greenery for balance. Carry out the theme by using pastel blue napkins and dinnerware, SAF adds.

A pure white cupid amid tiny red sweetheart roses mingled with violets on a table set with dinnerware and napkins will bring romance into a room.

Or a gold cupid in a setting of yellow roses intermingled with lacy white baby's breath makes a stunning centerpiece.

SAF offers these tips for using figurines in floral arrangements:

If more than one figurine is used, group them interestingly rather than scatter them around.

Check the colors of both the figurine and the flowers to see that they harmonize.

Study the size of the figurine. It shouldn't be so large that it overpowers the flowers nor so small that it gets "lost."

YOUR PROBLEMS

Mother Seeks Advice On Raising Children

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently in reply to a mother who was concerned about her daughter you wrote, "If you have done your job well you need not worry." What I would like to know is, how do I know if I am doing my job well?

Our three children are from two to eight years of age. I try to be a good mother but I keep wondering what I am doing wrong — or worse yet, leaving undone.

I dread the time when our children will be teen-agers. I hear and read so much about today's "teen - age monsters" that I wonder if I will be able to cope with them. Most of my friends whose children are older than ours have their hands full and they don't know where to turn.

What can I do NOW to instill in our children the proper values so they will grow up to be solid, well-adjusted adults? — LOOKING AHEAD

Dear Looking: The fact that you are thinking NOW of how to instill in your children decent values so that they will be solid, well-adjusted adults is good evidence that you yourself are solid and sensible.

A mother's instincts are far better than all the advice in the world. May I suggest a few guidelines to backstop the instincts?

Let your children know you love them and that they are important to you. Make each child feel worthy and useful in his own right so he will not be driven to out-do his brothers and sisters in a compulsive or destructive manner.

Insist that each child accept responsibility for himself and his belongings. Children who grow up with chores to do develop a living pattern of dependability, cooperation and usefulness.

Be consistent. Say what you mean and mean what you say. Give your children everything they have coming — both rewards and punishment.

Make friends of your children. Keep the arteries of communication open. Talk to them and listen to them when they talk to you. This should start at birth. The parents who wait until their children are "old enough to understand" wake up to find that that day has come and gone and that somehow they missed it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's mother passed away recently. Several of our friends sent lovely floral offerings which we appreciated a great deal.

When some of these friends came to call after the funeral, we thanked them for their beautiful flowers and told them how much it meant to us that they had been so thoughtful.

Yesterday I told my husband I was ordering some personally monogramed white note paper so I could write thank-you notes to all the people who had sent flowers. He said, "It isn't necessary. We thanked most of the people verbally."

I feel we should send notes, even if we did thank them in person. He insists I am wrong. Am I? Please settle it. —MES

Dear MES: He IS wrong. Go ahead and send the thank-you notes. When folks go to the trouble and expense to say it with flowers, the least you can do is say it in writing.

Do you lack self-confidence. . . have trouble making friends? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

'One Class' Show Held

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club staged a "one class" flower show last Wednesday on the Fifth District Garden Center TV program. The theme, "Video," interpreting a special TV program by each arranger. Five of the club's members brought designs that were judged just before the show by three Fifth District Flower Show judges, Mrs. K. R. Young, president of the Fifth District Judges Council; Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Junior Judge, and, Mrs. John Tolar, Junior Judge.

The purpose for this type program was to show the viewing audience an example of one one class in a show, how it is judged, and the arrangers interpretation. Also, the end results of the judging. In this class the award of Distinction was the goal set toward which each arranger must strive. This award must rate a 95 or over score by the judges. In this class the greatest points went to Design. This is true in most any class in a show. Design is always the first thing to consider when making an arrangement. Just as Taylor Arms said in his wonderful book on design, "Design First, Last, and Always." When a class strives for the Award of Distinction, other than fresh cut plant materials must predominate and a score of 95 or above is necessary. In the Tri-Color classes one must use fresh plant materials predominately or exclusively with a score of 95 or above.

Both awards must have distinction in the scale of points. This should always be made clear in the Flower Show Schedule since the schedule governs the show. It is the written law for the arrangers as well as the judges for the particular show for which it is written. The group of well informed members who plan the schedule, write it, and distribute it to the arrangers have quite a responsible job.

They must keep in mind the ability of their exhibitors, the flowers on hand, the place for the show, and, the amount of expense that will be involved. These are just a few of the things that this committee is responsible for. One important thing — this committee works far in advance of a show so that the problems can be ironed out ahead of time, the schedules printed early so that all who are entitled to have one can have it at least two months or six weeks before the show. So often this is one of the errors made by the clubs. We wait until the last minutes sometimes to get these important jobs done. Then, wonder why our shows fail to run as smoothly as we'd like them to.

The Blue Ribbon Award was given to Mrs. Gordette Eggleston on her design, "The Magic Box". A miniature T.V. set, represented by a small wooden box turned on its' side, with the flowers coming from within, representing the colorful programs. The line for the design was winged elm. Within this line was placed a row of deep orange into bronze straw flowers. A filler of dried purple flowers (statice) throughout completed the design which was placed to one side on a brown woven mat.

The judges commented that this design was very well executed with a pleasing color combination and very good interpretation. The mat was slightly large for the size of the design. More height could be used because of this base which added too much weight for the size of the design. Additional height solves the problem when the base is too heavy in design.

Second place award (red ribbon) was given to Mrs. W. L. Dean who interpreted, "Greatest Show on Earth." Her design contained interesting materials. Dried dock formed the crescent line on a natural colored wooden base. Styrafoam served as a holder. Within the central part of the design was placed a wooden hoop onto which clung a playful wooden monkey. Dried golden yarrow and bitter sweet was placed beneath this hoop as a filler. Very cleverly the mechanics were covered with sawdust. This design showed a lot of originality, and perfect interpretation. The crescent design was not as rounded as it possibly should have been according to the judges comments. The outer ends of the dock divided into two lines. The judges commented that these should have been placed closer to form a smoother flowing (crescent) line. Otherwise, a lovely creation.

Design "Raw Hide", winning third place (yellow ribbon) was won by Mrs. D. E. Dupree. A miniature ceramic covered wagon served as a container for the dried materials, dark brown Scotch broom, sea oats and deep gold straw flowers in the focal area. This design was placed on a lovely log round base — to one side. For accessory a grouping of small plastic figures of a cowboy on a horse, and two gunmen were placed to one side of the wagon design.

The colors in this design blended beautifully. This was an excellent interpretation. The judges constructive criticism was that the figurines were too small (out of scale) with the design. Also, they competed for focal interest since they were quite busy and interesting. More height was needed since the log-round base added quite a lot of weight. It is important to remember that our bases add weight to the design as well as a background to tie the whole unit together. Also, when using figurines be careful that they are in scale — or even needed. They should not compete for focal interest in a design unless used as the central interest in the design itself. When placing our flowers in a design we have to be careful that they are not in rows or shelves, but, at different stages and heights. This is one way that we achieve rhythm, by transition or even flow of line. The judges commented on this.

Mrs. R. D. Farr Jr. created the "Trail Master" winning honorable mention on her design which featured large iron rock for focal interest on a brown wooden board. A line of dark brown Scotch broom was placed to the back of the rock. A filler of dried seed pods, dark brown dock and fresh gloriosa daisies filled in this line. To the right of the large rock was placed a miniature covered wagon made of cactus (dried) with the white cloth cover. This design showed good interpretation for the T.V. show "Trail Master." The wagon competed for importance (focal) in the design. The judges commented that the white cover would be better (off white) or tan so as to blend better with the other colors of the design. Had the wagon been placed to the back of the design, slightly showing, the design would have been improved—or used instead of the rock for focal interest. Straw flowers were provided as a filler when the daisies faded. This was a lovely design for the den or family room.

Whenever a design does not conform to the requirements of the schedule the judges must (visually) eliminate it entirely. This is where the classification chairman is needed in a flower show. Her duty is to see that each design brought in is in the right class and conforming to the schedule requirements. She can take it from the show entirely unless the arranger can fix it before she enters it. One of the designs in the show had to be eliminated because it contained all fresh materials. A lovely design, in the oriental manner, made by Mrs. P. N. Edwards. I'm sure Mrs. Edwards grew these lovely yellow dahlias that she used for a line (triangle) in a low black bowl. One very large yellow dahlia was used low in the design with the foliage as a filler. Small pebbles covered the holder. A beautiful design — but not conforming to schedule in our small show "Video." We named it "As the World Turns." This seemed to fit it perfectly. Also, awarded it an Honorable Mention. It was good that we had a design of this type just to show what would happen in this case in a (real) flower show. This was, as I mentioned, a program just to show what actually takes place in a flower show, as to judging, arranging, etc. one certain class in the show. The Bayou DeSiard Garden Club was wonderful to prepare these designs for this purpose. All our thanks go to them and their president, Mrs. H. W. Tolson.

Next Wednesday: Dr. John Wright, Louisiana Tech, Ruston, will be back — so, be watching.

Chinch Bug Time Here

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Warm weather brings the possibility of chinch bugs in St. Augustine grass. To determine whether or not your yard has the small brownish to black bugs, cut the bottom of a coffee can out, sink it into the sod and fill with water. Allow to set for a few minutes. If chinch bugs are present they will come to the top. The control recommendations for 1964 include the following chemicals: Aspon, BHC-DDT, Ethion, Diazinon, Trithion and VC-13. Follow the manufacturer's directions for application.

Other suggestions for taking care of the lawn include remove clippings periodically to prevent build up of thatch and mow systematically.

Fertilize at monthly or six week intervals during the summer when watering thoroughly soak top three inches of soil, because frequent shallow sprinkling is of little value to the lawn.

IRIS

The 1964 Iris winners are: Dotted Swiss is a plant with a large bloom that displays its unusual shading and coloring to advantage — a snow white background dotted and marked with a lovely shade of medium blue.

Frost and Flame is an iris that lives up to its name. Its frosty snow-white flower carries a brilliant tangerine red beard.

Lynn Hall is a real pink iris. This one is a deep flamingo pink. It flowers freely, is finely branched and grows and increases vigorously.

Techny Chimes is yellow iris, whose beard is a bright orange-tangerine. The flower of this plant is full well formed and both standards and folls are lightly ruffled.

Violet Hills this is a bluish blue red with a taffeta like sheen and blue tipped beard. These are the five finest iris for this year. Last year's five favorite were : Bang — a brown red, Golden Garland, gold banded white, Patience, a rich magenta pink—with chimes deep pink and South Pacific, a glorious light blue.

HOME AND GARDEN WEEK

Now is the time Mrs. Homemaker for you to begin making plans to attend Home and Garden Week on the LSU campus August 17-20. You will have the opportunity to get up to date on various phases of homemaking. It will be interesting to see the progress our State University is making in the building program to take care of the future education of our children. It will be a week of relaxation and enjoyment.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH

The theme for June Dairy Month is, "Keep Cool with Dairy Foods, Summer's Hottest Values". Mrs. Homemaker, milk is a food with a remarkable combination of proteins, vitamins, minerals with fat and milk sugar. It is a most provident combination of nutrints. Milk is a basic food in any diet for losing weight, gaining weight, for maintaining bones and teeth. Calcium is, also, important for proper functioning of the muscles and nerves and for the normal clotting of blood. There is, also, high quality proteins in milk which provides essential building materials for all body tissues. Protein is the repairman for worn out body tissues.

Mrs. Homemaker, milk is a bargain food. At today's prices you would have to pay more than 40 cents for other foods for the amount of nutrients found in one quart of milk.

Every time yu drink a glass of milk it provides enough energy to walk a mile or dance for an hour, or to play cards for three and one half hours. If you're a homemaker, one glass of milk supplies enough energy to houseclean for two hours, or sew for a couple of hours.

A THOUGHT

There is no progress unless there is discontentment.

SOUTHERN GARDNER

Small Plants For Gardens

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Innumerable choice small plants can be grown in our shady azalea and camella gardens. Along the edges of paths and in front of azaleas, there is always a space — even in crowded collections of camellias — left for the growth of azaleas and camellias. There is no reason to leave this space empty. Small plants can easily decorate it for a time and then be slipped out as the shrubs overhang them.

Ivy is not the thing to plant in azalea and camellia gardens unless you can give a lot of time to clipping it and restraining it. Ferns, both evergreen and non-evergreen, are beautiful at the feet of camellias and azaleas. Clumps of wild ginger, coral bells (both wild and cultivated varieties), the small Iris cristata and the oriental roof iris (I. tectorum) will make a delightful ground cover. Some of these small plants are evergreen and some deciduous.

WINTER FOLIAGE

The evergreen Christmas fern and ebony spleenwort, the wild gingers, Italian arum, several kinds of hardy cyclamens, our wild running cedar, rattlesnake plantain and many other wild plants will charm you with their foliage in winter. Their beauty of foliage is such that even the camellia fanatics who visit your collection may notice them!

A good many of these small evergreen plants produce delicate flowers in abundance and are quite showy in their way after camellia and azalea time. The little foam flower (Tiarella) has a circle of exquisite little spikes of white flowers. The Italian arum produces small, parchment like flowers that are copies of the taller calla-lilies, its cousin. If you plant the Neapolitan cyclamen, your ground cover will be sprinkled over with pink, mauve and white violet shaped cyclamens all summer and into the fall.

Once you have a taste for shade loving plants, you will search out all the kinds you can find. Gardens in the shade are our specialty here in the South where there is so much sun and such a long season of sunshine. For some reason, even Southern gardeners just will not quite believe that there are actually showy plants that like the shade and will bloom without sunshine. Perhaps the many kind of hostas that are now coming into American catalogues will prove that masses of flowers can be produced without direct sunlight.

On The House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Air conditioning continues to make inroads into the list of things Americans believe are necessities in their homes.

Prospective home buyers are beginning to consider air conditioning along with such other matters as location, styling, room sizes and layouts. It hasn't yet become all-important, but there are some home builders who think that, some years hence, purchasers will look askance at a house which is not air-conditioned or, at the least, prepared for a central air conditioner at a later time. This belief is reinforced by surveys which indicate that air conditioning ranks high among housewives' preferences when remodeling an existing home and that families already living in air-conditioned houses give high percentage ratings to such advantages as reduction of dust in the air and allergy relief, along with the major expected asset of cool comfort.

Window and wall air conditioners, and window and attic fans, are now playing a definite role in keeping millions of homes cool. Generally, their purpose is to cool a part of the house where they are most needed, although some units or combination of units are designed for complete cooling coverage. More and more, however, builders are discovering the selling advantages of including a central cooling system in their houses.

Combining the heating system with the cooling equipment is gaining favor. The Long Island Climate Control Council points out that the costliest ingredient of a central air conditioning system is the network of ducts which carry the cool, filtered and dehumidified air. Council chairman Joseph Frederick says that if properly sized ductwork is already in place when the house is built, as part of the warm air heating system, the homeowner will not have to spend about $2,000 extra for a separate cooling system when he decides to make the addition. His costs then will run about $1,000 for the purchase and installation of machinery.

The National Better Heating-Cooling Council says that engineers have developed a variety of systems so that air conditioning can be installed in any type house, regardless of the kind of heating system used.

In any case, there appears to be agreement on the fact that this country is "air conditioning conscious" and that it isn't just a fad. When it's cold outside, Americans want it warm inside. And when it's warm outside, they want it cool inside.

O'NEILL GOES OPERATIC

NEW YORK (AP) — An operatic version of Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra" is scheduled for the 1966-67 Metropolitan Opera season.

The adaptation is by Marvin David Levy and was commissioned three years ago by the Ford Foundation. One other O'Neill drama was previously made into an opera, "The Emperor Jones."

CURRENCY ETCHINGS DISPLAYED

NEW YORK (AP) — An about-face set of portraits of American Presidents is being displayed at Henry Miller's theater where Helen Hayes is appearing in "The White House."

The pictures are reproductions of the etchings used for currency by the United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

AMUSEMENTS

CURTAIN CALL

With Camille Wood as Eliza and Bill Moore as Higgins, the "My Fair Lady" leads are in capable hands. In asking Arthur Griffith to take the featured role of Alfred Doolittle, executive director Richard M. Clark gave the nod to a combination of good voice and comic flair, the latter amply demonstrated in "Once Upon A Mattress," "Send Me No Flowers" and "Come Blow Your Horn."

Arthur's vocal talents are not as well known and our audiences will be pleasantly surprised at his rendition of "Get Me To The Church on Time" and "With A Little Bit of Luck." As Eliza's raffish father, Doolittle carries much of the comedy impact of the show and Stanley Holloway came as close as anyone could to stealing it from Julie Andrews and Rex Harrison. Watch out for Arthur to do the same.

The part of Freddy Eynsford-Hill, the playboy who becomes smitten with Eliza when she lapses into her cockney patois, has been entrusted to Frank Swindle who starred in the recent Northeast production of "The Mikado." After his big song, "On The Street Where You Live," he joins with Eliza in the rousing "Show Me."

Over the years, Garland Moore has proved one of our most versatile actors. Last seen as Beauregard in "Auntie Mame," he has earned his musical comedy spurs as Nathan Detroit in "Guys And Dolls" and as Buffalo Bill in "Annie Get Your Gun." In "My Fair Lady" Garland will be portraying Col. Pickering, Higgins' friend and confidant.

The role of Higgins' long-suffering housekeeper, Mrs. Pearce, will be played by Mary Lou Bairnsfather of Girard. Pat Fraze and Gloria Swindle will appear as the two society mothers, Mrs? Higgins and Mrs. Eynsford-Hill. The singing and dancing ensembles have been largely cast and we hope to have the complete list for next week's column.

The far-sighted are picking up the seats they want for the run of "My Fair Lady." As we mail tickets for the coveted "two on the aisle, halfway back," we wonder how many people will belatedly clamor for seats that have long since gone to the early birds.

To guarantee yourself a seat, you may apply to Little Theatre at Box 868, Monroe, right now with your remittance of $3.75 per adult and $2.50 per student. You need not specify which performance you wish to attend until later.

On the other hand, if you already know the date you will attend, simply inform us, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and your tickets will be returned to you promptly. Right now we can accept any date, although later we will need a second preference.

"My Fair Lady" opens at air-conditioned Strauss Playhouse on Friday, July 24, and runs each night at 8:15 through Sunday, August 2, plus a single matinee on Sunday, July 26, at 2:30. The box office on Lamy Lane is expected to open Wednesday, July 15, but advance mail orders are being processed currently.

New Little Theatre trustees elected for three year terms are Mrs. E. W. Biegenwald, Mrs. Robert L. Curry III, Mrs. James Greenbaum, Mrs. James L. Padgett, Mrs. T. J. Ryan Jr., Mrs. Ernest M. Strauss, V. P. Dalrymple, Irving Leibowitz, Jack Mabry and Hugh Matthews.

Retiring treasurer Russ Kettenring moves from one civic responsibility to another as he assumes the post of district governor of Lions. And we know our members appreciated the fine editorial tribute by KNOE-TV to retiring publicity chairman Miss Lallage Feazel.

The Little Theatre signboard at Louisville Avenue and Lamy Lane is now graced by a handsome advertisement for "My Fair Lady," thanks to the artistic brush of Norma Brandle.

Our "Once Upon A Mattress" costumes have been rented to the Studio Theatre, Carmel, California for their summer run and a second rental is in the offing, which will help recoup our considerable investment in them.

CROWDED ROADS

LONDON (AP)—On a note of despair, the British Road Federation reports Britain has probably the most crowded roads in the world. It figures there were 11,348,100 vehicles for 198,455 road miles last year, or 57 vehicles per mile.

PETER SELLERS is known to do strange things, but playing a violin concerto at a time like this is still unusual. The puzzled lady is Capucine. Both appear in the delightful comedy "The Pink Panther," which opens Wednesday at the Rialto Theatre. Also starring are David Niven and Robert Wagner.

Police Arrest 35 Negro Picketers In Mississippi

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—Meridian police arrested 35 Negro pickets here Saturday after the demonstrators paraded in front of three chain variety stores.

There were no incidents as city experienced the first such racial demonstration of any kind since civil rights problems gained emphasis in Mississippi.

The pickets demonstrated in front of Woolworths, Kress and Newberry's variety stores.

They spotted signs with the slogans "Jim Crow must go in 64." "Fight Jim Crow with our money," and "Freedom now."

There were no crowds, and other Saturday shoppers went about their business. The demonstration was sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality and two CORE lawyers arrived to confer with city officials minutes after the arrests.

The Negroes got out of cars in groups of fours and fives as the demonstration began.

CORE announced in New York Friday a march on the county court houses would take place Saturday, but there was no such march held.

A CORE spokesman said in New York trouble was expected and city officials had warned the Negroes not to march, but the officials denied any such warning had been issued and, they had heard of no such march plans.

On Dit'

by Denise

Ever anxious to keep our readers alert on what's going on, this week On Dit visits New York's World Fair. And may we say at the start: BIG is the world for it. The whole thing is big in conception; big in execution; and covers vast areas of land.

One may be entertained, fed, educated, edified, amused, stirred, and very, very tired — all at Flushing Meadow.

Some of the most popular exhibits are found in pavilions sponsored by American corporations. Long waits in line (up to two hours) are necessary at a number of these. We were unable to visit DuPont, Johnson's Wax, Ford Motor Company, or Traveler's "Triumph of Man" because of time limitations.

Spectators at Bell Telephone's exhibit are seated in wing chairs equipped with earphones. These move past animated dioramas describing development of communications from smoke signals to the telephone. Downstairs, visitors may examine and use various telephones incorporating latest designs and improvements.

Changes wrought in everyday life by harnessing of electricity are shown in a series of scenes in General Electric's carousel theatre. Also in this pavilion is the first public demonstration of nuclear fusion. The ground floor houses a medallion city showing electricity at work in home, school, hospital, city hall.

Moving chairs take spectators on General Motors' "Futurama Ride," one of the Fair's most popular pavilions. Here are shown views of life on the moon; undersea cities; construction in irrigated deserts, jungles; and other expected developments.

Coca Cola's exhibit is a walking tour around the world. Ports of call include Hong Kong, Cambodia, India, Germany, and the main salon of the S. S. Brazil. Atmosphere includes suitable sounds and smells in each area.

□ □ □

Treasures from the tomb of Tutankhamen are on exhibit in the pavilion of the United Arab Republic. A small museum presents a capsule history of Egyptian artifacts from the days of the Pharoahs through Coptic and Islamic cultures. Also shown are examples of present day products; a model of the Aswan Dam; and a report on efforts to save the temples at Abu Simbel.

Specially constructed cases with humidity control protect the Dead Sea Scrolls, on view in the Jordan Pavilion. Murals and models show scenes of Jerico, Jerash, Petra. In the courtyard is a column from the Roman temple at Jerash, a gift to the fair from King Hussein.

Michelangelo's majestic "Pieta" is fittingly displayed in the Vatican pavilion. Dark blue curving walls, spangled with stars and lifting to a soaring ceiling, frame the statue spotlighted in lone splendor. Three moving speedwalks at varying levels offer an unobstructed view.

Another treasure at the fair is an antique icon of the Virgin being shown by the Russian Greek Orthodox Church in a replica of Fort Hood Chapel. Of hammered gold, the image is thickly encrusted with diamonds, pearls, rubies, emeralds and lapis lazuli.

Thailand's pavilion is a small jewel of a temple. In the gift shop are sold dolls dressed in elaborate dancing costumes, lovely Thai silks, and other exquisite items.

Featured in the African pavilion are the Royal Watusi dancers of the Kingdom of Burundi. Here also is a tree-top restaurant, overlooking cages of lions, giraffes, monkeys.

There are also pavilions sponsored by various states. One of these bears the name of Louisiana, and the less said about it, the better. It is, as a matter of fact, one of only two exhibits of any size which are incomplete. Parts which ARE open are of such caliber as to be downright embarrassing to a Louisianian.

□ □ □

"To Broadway with Love" is the fair's gay revue presenting a capsule history of the American musical theatre. Songs are carefully chosen from hit shows of nearly one hundred years. Lavishly staged production numbers are built around "Dixie", "The Merry Widow," "The Charleston." "Beautiful Lady" features flamboyantly gowned show girls a la Flo Ziegfield.

Representing movies of the 1930's, the dancing ensemble duplicates before a large screen the routine of "Lullaby of Broadway" appearing thereon . . . And what show could go wrong with score by Stephen Foster, George M. Cohan, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Rogers and Hammerstein, Leonard Bernstein, Lerner and Loewe, etc.?

Free entertainment abounds on streets at the fair. There are dancers in Mexico's and Spain's pavilions performing throughout the day. One may watch the play of fountains, arrival of helicopters, outdoor elevators going up and down. In the World's Fair pavilion, visitors go in and out at will, pausing to hear the Cities Service Band of America. Most interesting and varied show is that of people who come and go. A wide variety of languages and costumes can be heard any day.

No fair is complete without rides. Although this one has no midway as such, there are several of favorites here in new guise. The ferris wheel is seen as a giant U. S. Rubber auto tire. What is called "Flume Ride" is a roller-coaster like trip over water in a hollow log.

Little boys of all ages love the antique car ride. There are also the Swiss Skyride, Monorail, helicopter, glass-bottomed boat, Ford Motor Company, Jaycopter, gondola, and river-boat rides.

Only lack of time prevents the fair visitor from eating his way around the world. Nearly all foreign (and some states) pavilions have restaurants specializing in dishes for which the area is famous. (Many complaints about food handling at the fair were heard in early weeks. At that time foreign pavilions were preparing food by native methods which violated New York's health code. A repeat visit by city inspectors last week found "a vast improvement." A special pat on the back went to Pakistan, Indonesia, Africa, and the Brass Rail's Patio restaurant.)

And how long does it take to see the fair: In one day one may get a confused, overall impression; in two days, some order in one's viewing; and in three days, a fairly complete idea of the fair.

Those who know say that it would take two weeks of eight hour days to see every exhibit — and surely they know. Most visitors, however, will not be interested in everything to be done. Most women will pass up the Auto Thrill Ride without a backward glance. And most men will favor General Motors over the pavilion of American Interiors. An ideal way to visit the fair would be in a party large enough to divide itself into groups according to age and interest, and to allow three or four days.

□ □ □

"Come to the fair and see the world" is the 1964 slogan. In lieu of a poem today, here are some famous quotes on world-seeing.

From "The Wind in the Willows" by Kenneth Grahame: "Take the adventure, heed the call, now ere the irrevocable moment passes. 'Tis but the banging of the door behind you, a blithesome step forward, and you are out of the old life and into the new! Then some day, some long day hence, jog home if you will, when the cup has been drained and the play has been played, and sit down by your quiet river with a store of goodly memories for company.

Lawrence Sterne in "A Sentimental Journey" says: "What a large volume of adventures may be grasped within this little span of life by him who interests his heart in everything, and who, having eyes to see what time and chance are perpetually holding out to him as he journeyeth on his way, misses nothing he can fairly lay his hands on."

Iridescent Tones Reflected In Men's Neckwear

Composite colors are making headlines in men's neckwear this year, according to Italian couture designed Fabiani, (who is best known as the husband half of Simonetta - Fabiani). Composite colors, also called iridescents, will be the major note in men's suits, and will be reflected in accessories such as ties and shirts.

"In contrast to the sober tones of last year, we will go brighter in color," Fabiani said. "Stripes are important but losing ground to patterns. The pattern is not going to be just a little spot under the knot this Spring, but will spread out to include more of the ground of the tie."

Most Fabiani ties are limited editions. Only a few dozen ties are made up in each pattern, and these are distributed all over the world. Thus a business man in New York, London or Tokyo knows that when he walks into an important board of directors meeting, no other member of the board is likely to be wearing the same tie.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

An Elegant, One-Story French Provincial Design

There is a certain ageless magnificence about the style of architecture originated in the French provinces during the 17th and 18th centuries.

We call the style French Provincial, and it seems to gain by adaptation to mid-20th century living practices. All the formal splendor remains, and modern family living needs are satisfied as well.

Today's House of the Week, design H-34 in the series, is a stately one - story designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern. It contains three bedrooms, two full and two half baths, a study, two fireplaces, and various specialty rooms in a total living area of 2,151 square feet. It's a house, in short, for families who are at the stage where they want to settle in one home and stay put.

The exterior features all the hallmarks of authentic French Provincial design — deep windows with transoms, shutters, French doors, double front entry panelled doors with a transom and keystone, and a wall-enclosed formal entrance.

French decor is carried inside by an octagonal foyer floored in marble with moulded walls and ceiling. The splayed ceiling is 10 feet high, adorned with a large chandelier.

The reception hall forms an axis creating a formal balance on both interior and exterior, typical of this style of architecture. The well - camouflaged garage, with a side entry, provides one of the balancing wings in front.

The various components of the house — wings, center section, roof line, front courtyard, chimney — all are in ideal proportion and harmony. Over-all dimensions of the house are 85'4" wide by 41'6" deep.

An example of how this historic design is perfectly attuned to modern, gracious living is the lounge, a specialty room just beyond the reception hall. It can be used as an overflow from the living room — either the informal "family" living room or the formal one — or it can serve as a room in itself, an intimate spot for small gatherings.

Right off the reception hall, through the alcove flanked by coat closet and lavatory-powder room, is a private study, complete with fireplace, which surely will prove to be one of the most popular rooms in the house.

The formal living roon, is truly Gone in the grand manner 13'10" by 21' in size, with a massive fireplace and large connecting arch to the dining room. The living room connects both with the lounge and with the covered rear porch behind the garage.

The kitchen is well situated as a housekeeping core. Its work area is efficiently U-shaped with a back counter for added counter and cupboard space, a second sink, and a pass - through to the lounge. Though the kitchen adjoins both the dining room and the informal living room, any traffic between those rooms through the kitchen still won't interfere with the work area because of the U-design.

A second living area lavatory is ideally located near the informal living room and kitchen and also convenient to the rear terrace and backyard.

The bedroom wing is nicely laid out with a minimum c hall space and a maximum of closet space. There are, in fact, two extra large linen closets; four closets in one family bedroom and five in the other; and a walk-in closet in the master bedroom which is large enough to be used as a dressing room as well.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-34.

FROM START TO FINISH

MURRAY, Ky. (AP) — Lowery Rains probably is the only man to start a 100-yard dash, then judge the finish.

Rains, a rural schoolteacher, agreed to fill in at a track meet when the regular judge failed to appear.

He fired the starting gun, started jogging down the track, and was on hand to call the finish as the youngsters broke the tape.

Want Ad Brings Glamour To Artic Women

To 381 Eskimos who live in the village of Gambell on St. Lawrence Island, a Want Ad in the Anchorage Times brought a glamorous, new way of life.

John Aningayou, carver of walrus ivory, slowly read this ad to his handsome wife, Adeline. "Studio Girl cosmetics. Free samples. Saleladies needed . . ." Off on the next mail plane went a coupon. Back came an alluring brochure and sales kit. After weeks of studying, Adeline went into the "beauty" business.

The women (and men) of Gambell are loving this touch of glamour in their lives — and the Aningayous' standard of living has risen to include all the status symbols . . . including a transistor radio.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

For those men who get up early in the mornings, take a shower and shave, and find the mirror all fogged . . .

Try picking up a bar of soap and making a few tick-tack-toe designs on the damp, fogged mirror. Take your dry washcloth and rub the mirror as if you were waxing the old automobile.

For days afterward the mirror will not smog, or fog up. The thin layer of soap leaves a film that prevents further fogging.

Phil

* * *

HEY, PHIL,

Did you know that if you have sliding mirror doors on your medicine cabinet, and slide one behind the other (this leaves the cabinet half open) before you take your shower or steamy hot bath, then open the second mirror when you get ready for that shave, that it will be clean as a whistle? No steam whatsoever.

This is the method we use and our family is sold . . .

These sliding doors are easily interchanged if yours is on the wrong side.

Heloise

DON'T WASTE IT

DEAR HELOISE:

I made a cute bathroom wastebasket out of a gallon-size plastic bleach jug! I cut it in such a way as to leave the handle on and covered the lower part with adhesive-backed paper. It's real pretty.

Mrs. Richard Dowling

SEPARATE SLICES

DEAR HELOISE:

Ever have trouble separating slices of bacon when taking it out of the refrigerator? (Silly question!)

Try running hot water over a rubber pot scraper for a few seconds, then just slide the warm rubber tip between the slices of bacon. Slick as a button.

Georgiana

SHARPER SALADS

DEAR HELOISE:

I always grate a little lemon rind in mayonnaise when making fruit salads. It gives it a tart taste.

H. C.

* * *

Wow! Does it! Wonderful and thanks, Heloise

SAVE THOSE EGG CARTONS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a hint for pet owners:

I cut the tops from cardboard egg cartons and use them for feeding my cat. When the pet is through eating, just throw the cardboard dish away.

No messy pet bowl to wash. . .

Anne Fry

* * *

Oh, Anne! You were wonderful to think of that one. Just think of the time you will save many pet owners. I also found out that you could stack one inside the other and just remove the top one after each meal. Saves cluttering up storage space.

Heloise

THERE'S AN ART TO IT

DEAR HELOISE:

I have just discovered that an art-gum eraser is the best way to clean bone and other pastel-colored leather shoes and handbags! A spot can be removed in a jiffy.

M.R.W.

GARLIC VINEGAR

DEAR HELOISE:

For those of you who like garlic flavor, but not the taste of the bud, I keep a sliced clove of garlic in a separate bottle of vinegar to use only for making salad dressing and the likes.

After a while, one has a delightful, homemade "garlic vinegar."

J.L.L.

RIDING BOOTS

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who have boots, whether cowboy or English style, and only wear them once in a while, I would like to tell them that if they do not have boot trees, the boots may easily be stuffed with crumpled-up newspapers.

This not only helps keep them in shape but keeps dust and moisture out of the boot.

Boot Manufacturer

LOVE LETTERS

DEAR HELOISE:

If you like perfumed stationery, just try this:

Put a few drops of perfume on a blotter and keep it with your favorite writing paper. It works!

Lethbridge

FISH FRY

DEAR HELOISE:

When I serve fish for dinner I always put vinegar in my dish water. This removes the odor from dishes and frying pans.

Mrs. Samihalic

DEAR FOLKS:

For those of you who buy dry cereal and want it to stay crisp . . . when you first open the package pour the contents into a fruit jar!

Put that old lid on top of the jar and screw it on tightly. This will keep out the moisture and prevent soggy cereals. Also, you can see how much cereal you have on hand.

Heloise

SEW SIMPLE

DEAR HELOISE:

When sewing on cotton or other light material, I use spray starch to "glue" the facing onto the cloth before sewing. Just spray facing and press into material with warm iron. This makes the material much easier to work with. No pinning or basting is required.

Mrs. Robert Schaser

PADDED HANGERS

DEAR HELOISE:

To eliminate the creases on trousers from clothes hangers, I suggest using the inside cardboard tube from waxed paper or paper towels.

Simply split the tube along one side with a knife or razor blade and slip on over the hanger.

These rolls may be secured with tape or string as desired. By pinching each end of the cardboard tube, it keeps the tube from turning round and round. These may or may not be covered, as desired.

Mrs. Fern Hendrick

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper. 6-14
